Amid Crisis and Human Strife

Commemorate Resurrection

By The Associated Press

Christians in a world still beset by crisis and human strife commemorate anew today the resuuection of Christ the Savior.

In rituals, prayer and song many lands will pay tribue to the Man of Galillee.

In Jerusalem itself discouragement to Middle East travel since the Sinai war last fall reduced to hundreds instead of thousands the number of Easter pilgrims.

But in the United States millions will enter the quiet, peaceful atmosphere of churches to worship. Other millions rose before dawn to attend ceremonies in the open.

Still others could remain in their homes watching various ceremonies on television. Even in the holy city of Rome, television was used for the first time to carry the annual Easter message of Pope Pius XII to the peoples of Europe.

The Pope's message also was broadcast by the Vatican radio and 14 European networks in 28 languages. The message was to be picked up later for rebroadcast by American, Canadian and British systems.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower will attend Easter services at the Reid Memorial Presbyterian Church in Augusta, Ga., where the chief executive is vacationing.

On the eve of Easter, an estimated 10,000 pilgrims gathered in St. Peter's Square in Rome and were blessed by the 81-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church. The pontiff appeared briefly at his apartment window to bless the throng.

In Jerusalem yesterday, flames burst from the tomb of Christ as the age-old ritual of the Holy Fire was re-enacted. Thousands of pilgrims packed the Church of the Holy Sepulchre for the Holy Saturday services.

A lone Palestine Arab woman, now a refugee, took part in a solitary drama of deep significance to her. Bearing a kerosene lamp made from tin cans, she lighted it from the Holy Fire.

Then she took the lamp to her room in a congested slum of the Jordanian sector of divided Jerusalem. There she will seek to keep it burning constantly for the next year—praying that next Easter will find her in her old family home in neighboring Israel.

For the Christians the Holy Fire service climaxed Holy Week. In days gone by tapers lighted in the holy flames were carried to Athens and Alexandria to symbolize the spread of Chirst's gospel to the ends of the earth.

American observances of Easter Sunday took many forms, including the annual parades and Easter egg hunts.

Warm but possibly cloudy weather was forecast for New York and its colorful throng of Easter paraders up Fifth Avenue.

Ex-Sedalian Dies in Wreck At Syracuse

Bill Edwards' Car In Headon Collision; Three Are Injured

Hopes for a happy Easter weekend in Sedalia turned to grief Saturday when a head-on automobile collision near Syracuse took the life of a young man coming here with his family to join his parents for the holiday.

William Ervin Edwards, 33, formerly of Sedalia, lately of Moberly, was instantly killed and three other persons, his wife and daughter and the driver of the second car, severely injured in the two-car collision.

The accident occurred on Highway 50 at the Log Cabin service station curve a mile west of Syracuse, about 11:30 a.m. Saturday.

Edwards died instantly in the head-on crash.

Mrs. Mildred C. Edwards, 34, suffered cuts of the chin, seven fractured ribs on each side, partially collapsed right lung, left knee broken, bruises and abrasions.

Harley Stanley Dodson, 21, 4631 Terrace, Kansas City, driver of the second car suffered a cut on the front part of the scalp, a cut across the right cheek and right eyelid, possible fractures of the left elbow and possible fractures of both ankles.

Mrs. Edwards and her daughter were brought to Sedalia to the Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing ambulance where Dr. A. L. Lowe rendered medical treatment to them. Dodson was rushed to the hospital by a passing motorist and he was treated by Dr. Stanley Fisher. X-rays were to be taken to determine the extent of their injuries.

Little information was obtained by anyone of how the accident occurred.

Don F. Seibold, 5373 Michigan, Kansas City, who was with Dodson, were enroute to Jefferson City. Seibold was driving in one car and Dodson following in another. Seibold told Trooper Richard Joos, State Highway Patrol, that he was ahead of Dodson and as he came around the curve there was a farm tractor with something on the rear of it apparently pulling out of the service station. He said he passed without being crowded but a second later heard a crash. He slowed down, looked back and saw the wrecked cars and the tractor appeared to be out on the pavement, but not hit.

Dodson, according to Trooper Joos, said "A farm tractor pulled on highway—that's all I can remember.

Trooper Joos conducted the investigation at the hospital in Sedalia, while Troper James R. Phillips, Boonville, investigated the accident at the scene.

Coroner Gene Bertram stated Saturday night he had called for an inquest to be held at Syracuse

A Threat

The Easter paraders had better keep their eyes skyward, if the weatherman is correct. He predicts a soaking for those fancy bonnets.

Partly cloudy with scattered showers today, tonight and Monday. Continued warm. High today around 80.

The temperature Saturday was 66 at 7 a.m. and 75 at 1 p.m. The low Friday night was 64. Precipitation Friday night and early Saturday, .08 inch.

The temperature one year ago today, high 82, low 44; two years ago, high 80, low 47; and three years ago, high 77, low 61.

Stage at Lake of the Ozarks Saturday 53.6, no change.

Ike Faces Three Hard Facts

Time Becomes the Vital Element In Improving the Farm Situation

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP) — Time is becoming a vital element in efforts of the Eisenhower administration to leave the farm situation in better shape than it found it in 1953.

Certainly, what the administration does between now and the elections in 1960 may have a lot to do with Republican chances of holding onto the White House that year.

Moving into its fifth year in office, the administration is faced by these three hard facts:

1. Farm prices are 13 per cent below the level prevailing when Eisenhower took office.

2. Farm surpluses are nearly three times as large as they were at that same time.

3. The government has spent more on agriculture during the first four years of the administration than in the preceding 20 years.

As these facts clearly indicate, the administration has a big job getting agriculture back where it was four years ago.

It is a recognition of this task — and the relative shortness of time remaining — that is leading Secretary of Agriculture Benson to say that present programs need drastic overhauling. Otherwise, he says, surpluses at the end of the administration may be as large as they are now.

The government now has $8,360,000,000 invested in farm surpluses. The investment four years ago was $2,912,000,000. This big increase was made in the face of broad use of crop production control programs and expenditure of upwards of four billion dollars in subsidizing exports.

Of course, Benson says that programs of the Truman administration, which by law he was required to use through 1954, contributed heavily to the buildup of surpluses.

Two years of programs patterned largely after Benson's recommendations have cut the investment in surpluses about half a billion dollars. This is not fast enough, however. It would take an annual reduction of more than three times that amount—or about $1,816,000,000 — to get the investment down to the pre-Eisenhower level by election time in 1960.

The secretary is counting some on the new soil bank program to help reduce surpluses. Under this program, the department is authorized to pay farmers up to $1,200,000,000 a year to retire land from production of surplus crops.

In Proxy Battle

MoPac Management Appeals To Stockholders for Support

ST. LOUIS, April 20 (AP)—Management of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, engaged in a proxy battle with an opposition group seeking to elect four directors to the Board, is appealing to the railroad's stockholders for support.

T. C. Davis of New York, who was MOPAC board chairman when the company was in bankruptcy, is a member of the opposition slate.

"We know little of their present purpose and ambitions, except that they are manifestly opposed to your management," MOPAC president P. J. Neff said in a letter to stockholders.

"In view of the fact that your company so recently emerged from its 23-year reorganization proceedings, that it has just completed a highly successful year . . . your management had hoped there would be no contest for the election of directors."

Five directors will be named to the 15-member board at the May 14 stockholders meeting in St. Louis, the first such meeting since the company emerged from bankruptcy.

The management also assailed the action of Thomas B. Shearman of Lake Charles, La., a member of the opposition slate, in filing suit in circuit court at Independence, Mo., seeking a change from the staggered method of electing board members. The suit asked that all 15-members be elected annually instead of five being named each year to three-year terms.

The present method was thoroughly explored during the company's prolonged reorganization, Said Russell L. Dearmont, vice president and general counsel.

"We have no alternative but to vigorously oppose Mr. Shearman's 11th hour attack on a feature of the reorganization plan which we propose to carry out in accordance with orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the U. S. District Court," he said.

April 30 Is Deadline To File Wool Receipts

April 30 is definitely the last date for filing sales documents for wool and unshorn lambs to the county ASC office. This date is almost here, says Carl E. Johnson, office manager of Pettis County office, and he believes that there still are receipts out that have been overlooked by wool producers. Since the incentive payments in 1956 were very attractive and he believes those for 1957 to be equally attractive, it is very important that this evidence be filed before the deadline date.

"NOW YOU SHUSH"—Actress Shelley Winters puts her hands over the face of her fiance, actor Anthony Franciosa, who sits handcuffed in the Los Angeles sheriff's office after a row with a news photographer. She was attempting to quiet him during a discussion of the affair. Witnesses said the row started when Franciosa objected to being photographed as he and Miss Winters left an auction in Superior Court, where he unsuccassfully bid on the home of the late producer Bert Friedlob. Is Reported To Have Asked For No Record

Teamsters Union Has Not Said Whether Defense Is Intended

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP) — The Teamsters Union is reported to have asked that no record be kept of its AFL-CIO trial on corruption charges.

AFL-CIO sources interpret this to mean that the Teamsters don't want in existence a written transcript which could be subpoenaed by the Senate Rackets Committee and combed over for possible new evidence against the union.

It is still not clear whether the Teamsters will send representatives to defend the union at the trial, scheduled to be held May 6 behind closed doors.

Such trials are customarily held in secret, and it is up to the defendant union whether a record will be kept.

The 1½-million member Teamsters organization came under charges from its parent AFL-CIO as a result of the Senate committee's disclosures against Teamsters President Dave Beck and other high officers.

The federation has suspended Beck as an AFL-CIO vice president and council member, an action Beck is contesting, and has scheduled a hearing May 20 before the AFL-CIO executive council. Beck claims his suspension is illegal and therefore a "nullity." He has hinted he won't show up for his hearing.

The federation also has accused the Teamsters Union itself of being dominated by corrupt influences. This charge is the basis for the May 6 trial before the AFL-CIO theical practices committee. If sustained, the charge could lead to eventual ouster of the AFL-CIO's largest union.

The AFL-CIO has assured the Teamsters no record of the May 6 trial will be kept unless the union wants one. This, it was said, is in line with a policy enunciated by George Meany, AFL-CIO president, that proceedings against Beck and the Teamsters will be conducted impartially in line with past practices.

St. Louis Has Sharp Increase in Crimes

ST. LOUIS, April 20—(AP)—A sharp increase in St. Louis crimes last month was disclosed today in the police department's monthly statistical report.

There were 425 crimes against persons for the month, up 31 from March 1956, and the percentage of these crimes solved was down to 46.8 last month to 54.6 a year earlier.

Crimes involving property also jumped, from 2,864 in March 1956 to 3,118 last month, but 17.6 per cent of these were solved last month as compared with only 14 per cent a year earlier.

US Informs 14 Allies Of Readiness to Talk On Changing Embargo

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)— A State Department spokesman said today the United States has informed 14 Allied nations that it is "prepared to discuss certain modifications" in the embargo systems controlling trade with Red China and the European Soviet bloc.

The spokesman said the modifications fall into two categories:

1. Some items of trade for peaceful use which are now barred in commerce with Red China "would be removed from controls and would be placed on the same basis as in the case of trade with the European Soviet bloc."

2. Certain other items "now embargoed to Communist China would continue under embargo and would be transferred to the European Soviet bloc list but under a lesser degree of control."

Empty Boat Spurs Search For 2 Persons

Believed Drowned In Lake at Warsaw; Will Drag Today

A young Benton county couple has been reported missing and premusably drowned in the Lake of the Ozarks near the Warsaw City Dock. They were reported missing by a brother of the young husband who noted their boat circling in the lake with neither in it.

Believed missing is Carlos Wayne Powell, 24, and his wife, Nadine, 21, who resided on Route 2, Lincoln, Mo.

Dan Powell, brother of the husband, was waiting on the swinging bridge when he noted the motor boat going in circles in the lake with no one in it. He immediately summoned help and they went to the scene to try to stop the boat and to look for the couple.

The boat, it was reported, was equipped with an outboard motor and running top speed. Other persons obtained boats and at one time it was estimated more than 20 were on the lake trying to apprehend the fast running, circling boat.

It continued to circle in the lake all the way from near the City dock down the Lamine river, Lake of the Ozarks, for approximately two hours. It was finally stopped and towed to the bank after reaching the center bridge.

Efforts to drag the river Saturday night were decided against, because of the high and current waters, until early Sunday morning at daybreak. In the meantime, "spotters" are on the lake in boats watching in case one or both bodies should surface and could be reached.

Sheriff Bob White, Benton County, and Trooper Glenn Means of the State Highway Patrol are investigating.

Third Congress Of Ambassadors Ends Saturday

One of the largest conventions ever held in Sedalia came to a close yesterday noon as the Royal Ambassadors third annual Congress was adjourned.

Presiding over the meetings was Ambassador - in - Chief Charles Clemmons, Jr., Nevada, Mo. Other officers assisting were: Larry Elam, Kansas City, Assistant Ambassador-in-Chief; Eddie Buerckholtz, Springfield, recorder; and Charles Helm, Maplewood, steward.

The Royal Ambassadors, ranging in age from 9 to 16 and sponsored by Baptist churches to help promote study of missions and the Bible and related subjects, conducted four sessions, one on Friday afternoon, another on Friday evening, and two on Saturday morning. They included playlets, skits, panel discussions and visual aids, and each featured a missionary message.

The Rev. William Thomas, educational director of the First Baptist Church, was the local general chairman and was assisted by the Rev. Kenneth Davidson, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist Church.

In charge of over-all arrangements for the Congress was the Rev. Willis Griffin, Royal Ambassador secretary, Jefferson City.

Tractor Overturns, Killing Its Operator

VAN BUREN, Mo., April 20 (AP) —A farm tractor overturned in a farm field near here yesterday, killing the operator, Charles Ernest Gaskin.

The Carter County farmer was hauling fertilizer with his son, Leon, and another man. The tractor rolled on top of him.

Gap Is Filled By Leader Of Bedouins

Switch Takes Place While Former Chief Is on Syria Mission

AMMAN, Jordan, April 20 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Ali Hayari resigned as the Jordan army's new chief of staff today while on a military mission to Syria, the haven of his predecessor. King Hussein promptly filled the gap with a tough Bedouin general, a leader of the loyal tribesmen who form the backbone of the army's old Arab Legion.

A dispatch from Damascus said Hayari accused Hussein's royal palace of "preparing a plot in cooperation with foreign non-Arab military attaches in Amman against Jordan's independence and liberty." He was reported to have asked the Syrians for political asylum.

Succeeding him as acting chief is Maj. Gen. Habes Majali, a members of an old Bedouin family and a cousin of Hazza Majali, who tried as premier last year to take Jordan into the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact.

An official spokesman said Hayari, a career soldier, formally assumed only Thursday the top army job vacated by Maj. Gen. Ali Abu Nuwar, a pro-Egyptian soldier-politican, at the height of the governmental crisis last weekend. Hayari was sent to Damascus yesterday to arrange the extradition of Nwwar and other Jordanian officers who fled with him.

He was supposed to contact the Syrian army chief, Gen. Tewfik Nizam.

Instead, once across the border, Hayari telephoned his father-in-law, Sen. Sedky el Kassem, and asked him to present his resignation to Premier Hussein Khadlidi's government.

Kassem, a former army officer, was reported to have left later for Damascus in an effort to persuade Hayrai to return to Jordan.

At the time Hayari was named chief of staff, Majali was named deputy chief. Majali was made acting chief tonight. His rise in the military hierarchy has led to speculation that King Hussein has decided to rely more on the Bedouins and reduce the influence of Palestinian Arabs and city men in the army.

At the Bothwell Hotel

Button Society Will Conduct Sixth Competitive Show Here

The Missouri State Button Society's sixth competitive show will be held in Sedalia on Saturday and Sunday, April 27 and 28, at Hotel Bothwell.

And again it's "Button, button, who's got the button?" If, as a youngster, you were ever confused on who had the button you'll be more confused at the button show because everybody will have buttons.

Button collecting is one of the leading hobbies in the nation and the national organization has more than 2,000 members. The Missouri Club has a membership of 67 scattered all over the state. The state show is a replica of the national show using the same classifications and rules that apply to the national organization.

Some of the classifications to be shown include fabric, metal, glass, pearl, ceramic, inlay, animal life, plant life, heads, pictorial and 18th century.

To appreciate the picture buttons of the 1870's you must know art, history, literature and opera for the buttons depict all these fields. Amongt hem are portraits of famous people, ancient castles, characters and scenes from novels, operas, fairy tales and Bible stories.

Every industry, art, calling and profession is reflected in buttons.

Many trays of rare and beautiful buttons from all over the world will be on display with the lovliest wedgewoods from England, the finest porcelains and enamels from France and mosaic and cameos from Italy.

Button collecting is not a feminine hobby. The earliest button collectors were men and about two-thirds of the buttons made before 1820 were made for men. It has been said that buttons are antiques in miniature. This is especially true in the fine old colored glass and the paperweight buttons.

Officers of the Missouri Society are: president, Mrs. Frank Wine, Clarence; first vice-president, Miss Helen Bapple, Sedalia; second vice-president, Mrs. R. C. Haynes, Marshall; secretary, Mrs. Walter T. Mills, University City; and treasurer, Mrs. Charles Wilson, Springfield.

There will be button dealers from over the state and Mr. and Mrs. George Ertell will again have their lovely buttons here all the way from Flemington, N.J.

A banquet will be held at Hotel Bothwell Saturday evening with a program following.

The show will be held in the Ambassador Room and will be open to the public without charge from 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, April 28.

Escape Hurts In Collision On West '50'

Two cars collided west on U. S. Highway 50, at the E. W. Thompson Ranch about 8:20 p. m. Saturday night, doing considerable to both vehicles while the occupants escaped serious injury.

A 1948 Chevrolet tudor sedan driven by John H. Beck, 51, of Route 4, Sedalia, was headed west and made a turn into the road on the ranch, and a 1955 Buick sedan was being driven east on the highway by Marvin L. Nicholson, 26, Route 4, Parkville, Mo., when the collision occurred.

The right rear fender on Beck's car was smashed and the rear bumper damaged. The front end of the Buick was damaged and the car went on past the Chevrolet, running off into the ditch about 200 feet east of the drive.

The Buick was towed to Chamberlain's by a wrecker from there and Beck's car was lifted out of the ditch and driven in on the farm property.

Beck was alone in his car. Nicholson was accompanied by his wife, Betty, 24, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Janney, and their five year-old-daughter Terri Lynn Janney. Janney complained of a back injury but did not go to the hospital. The others were only shaken up, according to a report given Trooper Robert Stockdell of the State Highway Patrol.

Police Report Woman Admits Embezzlement Of Around $15,000

ST. LOUIS, April 20 (AP)—Police reported Mrs. Daphrene J. McMullin admitted today the embezzlement of about $15,000 from the Southern Comfort Corp.

Mrs. McMullin, employed by the firm as a bookkeeper until last February, was arrested last night on a warrant charging her with forgery in connection with a $2,800 check.

Police said the woman, in a statement dictated at police headquarters, admitted embezzling the money over a two-year period. They quoted her as saying she spent $2,400 on a car, made a $2,800 payment on a tavern for a friend and that she couldn't remember how she spent the rest of the money.

James McMullin, husband of the woman, told police he had not seen his wife since last March 25 and hadn't heard from her since that time. She was arrested at the home of a woman friend.

WAFB Post Office Status Is Changed

A branch of the Sedalia Post Office has been operated under civilian contract at Whiteman Air Force Base, but, effective Monday it becomes a classified branch of the Sedalia office. A clerk from this office will be in charge, with auxiliary clerks as needed, according to Postmaster Maurice Hogan.

Plans are that about the first of August, as the new housing at the base is completed, there will be carrier service at the base.

The Post Office at Whiteman Air Force Base will soon move into new and enlarged quarters which will be more convenient for those using the Post Office on the base.

Extension and Marketing Specialists Address Meeting

After a brief report by committee chairman John Knaus on the Jefferson City trip which he, Miss Anna Bagby, and County Agent Merle Vaughan made in late February, Extension Specialist Walter Russell was introduced to 14 persons interested in poultry and egg production who were gathered at the Bothwell Hotel for a quarterly meeting on April 15.

Russell first mentioned the all-time low number of chicks being sold by hatcheries this spring. The broiler industry is now 90 per cent integrated, and in regard to the trend toward total integration of the egg production business, he said, the individual producer stands as good or better chance of making a profit over the long pull as the one under the contract system. The profit per hen should average near $2 in future years, he said. His suggestions to increase net profit were as follows:

1. Direct sales to consumers.
2. Purchase straight run chicks; sell cockerels as fryers.
3. Market culls as dressed hens.
4. Raise broilers in empty brooder house during summer.
5. Fully utilize home grown grain.
6. Increase number of large eggs by retaining yearling hens until winter when they molt.

The second speaker of the evening, Tom Day, marketing specialist, stressed the fact that too many eggs consumed in cities no larger than Sedalia come from producers outside the city—ever outside the state. The consumer is most interested in the egg that comes from close at hand.

Prior to the enactment of the Egg Law, the outlets for graded eggs numbered 255. Following the law, it rose to 1,170, and now stands at about 950 stations.

The public still is not aware of the differences in grades and sizes for eggs. Actual cases of Grade A Medium eggs selling for more than Grade A Large eggs in the same stores have been noted. One promotional scheme that has been used successfully in a 4-H demonstration conducted in the store, with a boy and girl breaking out eggs and explaining grades while consumers watched.

The new research on holding freshly gathered eggs in air tight containers to maintain quality by preventing loss of carbon dioxide was reported as a new step to watch.

At the close of the meeting doughnuts and coffee were served. The next meeting will probably be held in July and housing will be discussed.

Auxiliary Holds Installation Service

The auxiliary to Allie E. English Post No. 3189, Veterans of Foreign Wars, held its installation Thursday evening, April 18, with Mrs. Byda Pump, 6th district president, and Mrs. Minnie Rage, conductress from VFW Auxiliary 3508, assisting installed the following officers: president, Lillian Brown; senior vice, Pennelophy Bell; junior vice, Magnolia Colwell; chaplain, Tennessee Craddock; treasurer, Leona Balance; conductress, Hattie Rainey; guard, Virginia Taylor; trustee, Sarah Pool; trustee, Anna Lee Ray, trustee; Shellene President; secretary, Minnie Hinkle.

After the installation ice cream and cake were served.

Square Dance Calling Has Become High Income Job

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK — (NEA) — There's getting to be a lot of dough in the old do-si-do. That's because there's a big shortage of good square dance callers and the ones who can do it well are profiting accordingly.

A take of $300 a week isn't unusual, according to Gene Gowing, who is probably America's most famous caller. Of course, that's only during "the season," but the season is getting longer all the time as square dancing keeps growing more popular.

Gowing isn't typical of the callers. He dresses impeccably — sort of a white collar caller — and speaks in the cultivated accents of a highly-educated man, which he is. At 61, he wears a clipped mustache and his hair is graying at the temples. He looks like a Wall Street banker or retired quiz show contestant.

But the lines of his distinguished face grow angry and his voice grows firm when he talks about "the charlatans" among the callers.

"There are maybe five or six good callers in the country," Gowing says. "But there are thousands of charlatans. They don't know what they're doing. They can ruin a person for square dancing for the rest of his life."

Gowing comes from Peterborough, N. H., where they look on the Virginia Reel as a new-fangled foreign dance. His father and his uncle were callers and he thinks his grandfather was, too. He grew up to the strains of "Turkey In the Straw" and could allemande almost before he could talk.

But he set his sights on other careers. He is a graduate of M.I.T. in architecture, a former art director and a veteran actor. He succeeded Lon Chaney in horror pictures in Hollywood's young days.

In '32 he felt the call to call. And he says he's never been happier or healthier, attributing his youthful appearance to the sense of rhythm that square dancing gives him.

He's been a professional caller now for 25 years, and has been at the corn-fed controls for square dancing in such varied places as the White House, mental hospitals, swanky Florida hotels, the UN, factories, society mansions, the Waldorf-Astoria and Army camps.

He's devised ways and means for the deaf-and-dumb and patients in wheelchairs to square dance. He's written a book, "Square Dancing for Everyone." And he's itching to go behind the Iron Curtain, figuring maybe the Texas Star can soften the Red Star.

In all his travels, he says he's heard thousands of callers and "most of them are pure charlatans." Gowing feels that square dance calling is an art — a person must feel the urge to call, learn all he can learn, then work hard for ten years before he's any good.

"There are three requirements for a caller," he says. "He must be able to get along with people have a sense of humor and have infinite patience."

And then he lists some more requirements — a good voice (Gowing once studied nothing but "upward inflection" for four weeks with a voice teacher); an ability to manage a large crowd; a sense of rhythm; and a couple of changes of clothes.

"If they ask me to," he says, with a sad face, "I'll wear cowboy clothes or dungarees. But I prefer to work in a business suit like this."

There are three kinds of calls for square dancing. The basic call is prompting — "The caller is just a leader, prompting the dancers a measure or two before the action." Then came singing calls. And finally are the patter calls — "In the West, some callers have gone insane with all kinds of weird patter and chatter. They have to be translated."

Gowing thinks a beginner should stick to prompting. And, as for charlatans, they should stick to some other line of work.

Lucky Number

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Twins Roland and Donald Bezella are 13, and their parents have the figures, mostly 13, to prove it.

The boys were born at 9:13 a.m., Aug. 13, 1943. Their mother, whose birthday is July 13, was in room 413 at the hospital and had been married 13 years when the boys arrived.

Ronald and Donald each have 13 letters in their names and were baptized on the 13th Sunday of the year. The boys will graduate from the eighth grade on June 13.

Van Winkle Attends Sales Confeernce

Dee O. Van Winkle of Sedalia will be among those attending the annual sales conference of the Security Benefit Life Insurance Co. at Camelback Inn, Phoenix, Ariz., April 24-27. Van Winkle is a local agent of the company. He qualified for the trip on the basis of his production record during 1956.

Each year the company sends a select group of representatives from its 29 state operating territory to the conference, at which time they meet with home office representatives from Topeka, Kan., and study the latest developments in the life insurance field.

Railroads Are Among Top US Taxpayers

At this time of year when Mr. and Mrs. Average American Taxpayer have just shelled out sizeable amounts of their bankrolls as income tax to Uncle Sam, it may be somewhat of a sop to their wounded feelings to be reminded that they are not alone. Uncle's bite is on all American business too, and in this respect the railroad industry stands among the nation's largest taxpayers.

Taxes paid by the nation's railroads on their income last year amounted to $393,825,000. But this was only 35 per cent of the $1,121,325,000 paid to federal, state and local governments. The remaining 65 per cent consisted of $334,215,000 for railroad retirement and unemployment insurance taxes, and $393,283,000 to the 48 states in payment of property, franchise, income and other taxes.

Local taxes more directly benefit the citizens of the territory served by the railroads, and in some cases account for the largest tax income from a company operating in the particular state or county. Last year Missouri Pacific paid $8,930,000 to the 11 states through which it operates.

Taxes paid to the various counties is divided among several categories, such as roads and bridges, levees and drainage, city streets, etc., but by far the largest amounts are allocated to schools, which in some cases includes libraries. The total amount of taxes paid in Missouri by Missouri Pacific in 1956 was $1,462,135.23. The school taxes alone for the 39 counties and the city of St. Louis totalled $803,124.52.

The total taxes paid in Pettis County and surrounding counties were: Pettis, $61,605.12; Cooper, $28,884.26; Johnson, $25,760.60; LaFayette, $52,533.38; Moniteau, $37,555.14; Morgan, $6,035.14; and Saline, $24,662.87.

The school taxes paid in each of the same counties was: Pettis, $39,014.51; Cooper, $17,121.35; Johnson, $13,035.09; LaFayette, $27,191.90; Moniteau, $25,415.56; Morgan, $1,591.67; and Saline, $14,187.89.

SEA MONARCH—The British Navy's new, high-speed submarine, "Explorer," makes a surface run in a test of a new hydrogen peroxide system of propulsion. One of two new undersea vessels, the sub was built for experimental work using the new system, which utilizes peroxide to produce an atmosphere in which the sub's engines, when submerged, can also use full propelling power.

Owen Fox Speaks To Maplewood 4-H

Owen Fox was guest speaker at the April 17 meeting of Maplewood 4-H Club. He spoke on junior leaders.

It was decided the club would attend Wesley Methodist Church in a group 4-H Sunday. Priscilla Ellis gave a demonstration on the proper way to frame a picture and Karl Kasak showed how to fasten two boards together with a flat head wood screw.

Wanda Singely served refreshments.

The next meeting will be May 19 at Maplewood Hall.

Brainy Machines Are Made To Work By Feminine Touch

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— Man may have made electronic brain machines, but now he's looking for women to run 'em.

The age of computers that do everything from predicting weather to awarding contracts has created a wide-open field for mathematically minded women.

College girls with degrees in math will find both private industry and Uncle Sam eager to set them to work feeding computers facts and figures, according to the Labor Department.

"The advent of the electronic calculators has opened a new field for B.A. mathematicians, although workers with advanced degrees are preferred where available," says a booklet just put out by the Women's Bureau called "Women Mathematicians and Statisticians."

"It is a fact that many industrial laboratories employ only women for their computing groups," continues the pamphlet. "Others employ a high percentage of women. In one instance, for example, 67 per cent of the programing staff are women—many of them with only a bachelor's degree."

Computing machines are actually not giant brains, according to the booklet.

"The mathematician must decide exactly what operations are to be done to yield an answer, then break down the problem to elementary operations of which the machine is capable," it explains. "This is the function of the coder and the programmer. The operator puts the problem on the computer through a signal to a control unit, and receives the result from the 'ouput' devices."

Says an engineer at the National Bureau of Standards in somewhat simpler terms: "A computer is moronic unless you tell it specifically what to do."

Today the bureau's Division of Applied Mathematics is concerned with these machines and ways in which they can be used, among other things. And 24 out of 66 mathematicians in the division are women.

The principal computer at the bureau is the Standards Electronic Automatic Computer — SEAC for short—which has tackled such tasks as:

Performing calculations for the development of the hydrogen bomb.

Figuring out the range and destination of guided missiles.

Helping to award government contracts by selecting the best of more than 20 bids.

One of the most unusual women in this program at the bureau is Mrs. Ethel Marden whose mouth-filling title is "Data Processing Application Analyst."

At present she's one of a group that is trying to work out a computing technique to assist examiners at the U.S. Patent Office to speedily locate a patent in the file of three million.

On the side, Mrs. Marden happens to be an excellent skin diver who travels extensively with her writer and explorer husband.

Government experts warn, however, that it's no pushover to learn how to use computers. Although some programming can be handled by high school students proficient in mathematics, the real demand is for specially trained college graduates.

This means a four-year program for a bachelor of science in applied mathematics which might include eight semester courses in mathematics and eight in engineering, physics and chemistry.

Median annual earnings for women mathematicians or statisticians who received bachelor's degrees in 1955 were $3,848 in early 1956, according to a study by the Women's Bureau and National Vocational Guidance Association. Salaries have been increasing, however.

Give Demonstrations At W.W. 4-H Club

The W.W. 4-H Club of Blackwater met Thursday evening at the W.W. Community Center with a large attendance.

The president, Philip Wayne Widel, presided over the meeting. A demonstration on how to make a soils test was given by Jimmy Ray and the following demonstrated clothing project No. 2: Marian Lae Sprigg, Faye Topel, Karyl Wagner and Kay Sprigg. They also spoke on cotton materials. All project leaders reported.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Mrs. Ethel Marden, mathematician at the National Bureau of Standards, checks the work of a computing machine. The government is seeking more women for this type work.

In 1956 the world's civilian airlines carried 78 million passengers, for an average distance of 571 miles each.

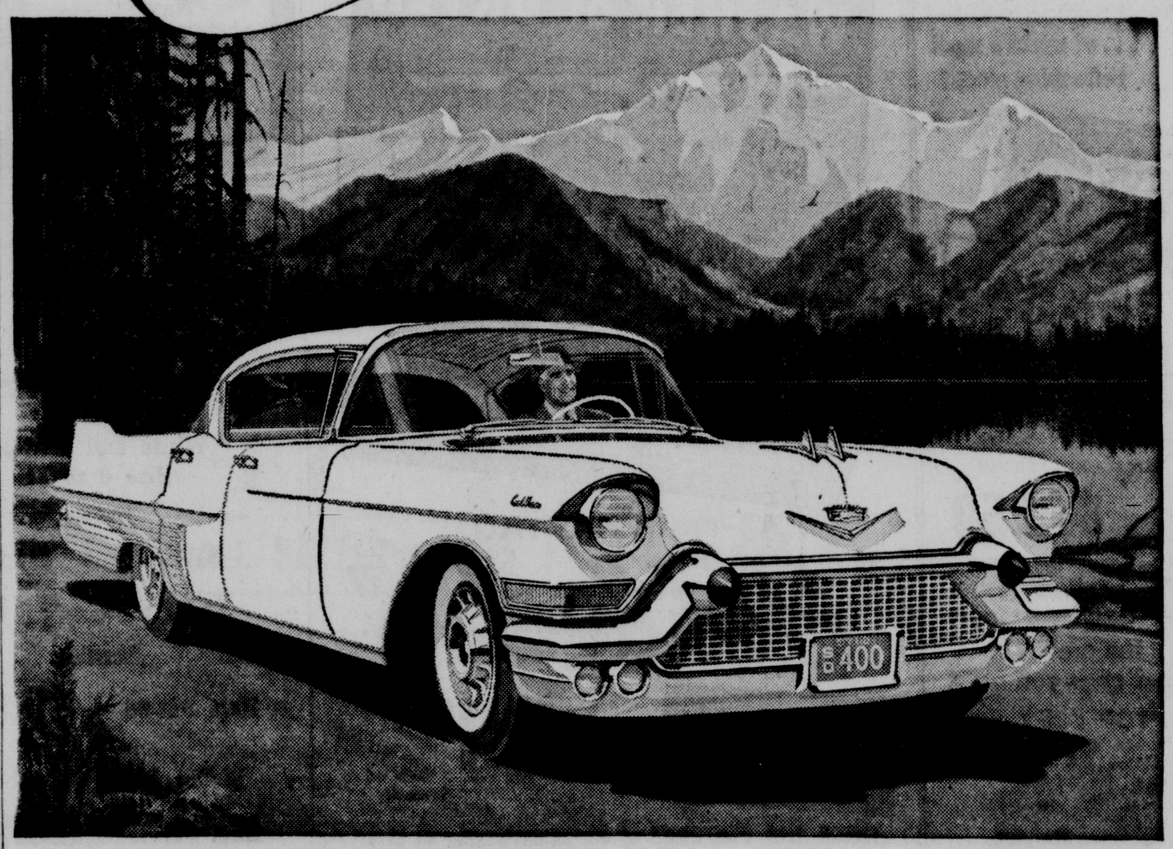
Cadillac



Listen to What Its Silence Says!

Ever hear a motor car tell its own story?

Well, just get behind the wheel of a new 1957 Cadillac—head for your favorite stretch of highway—and listen!

Of course, the truth of the matter is that you won't actually hear anything. For a 1957 Cadillac in operation is as quiet as human skill and ingenuity can make it.

But imagine, if you will, all the wonderful things the car will be telling you through the voice of its own silence!

First of all, it will speak—and most eloquently so—of the soundness of Cadillac styling. For the car is so scientifically designed that even the onrushing wind is reduced to a gentle whisper.

It will tell you of the genius of Cadillac engineering. For every aspect of the car's brilliant performance goes about its work in soundless harmony.

And it will reveal the care and the skill of Cadillac craftsmanship. For even when it travels the most neglected of byways, the car remains wonderfully silent.

* * *

If you have yet to sit at the wheel of a 1957 Cadillac and hear this wonderful story for yourself, then we urge you to delay no longer in doing so.

We hope you will visit your Cadillac dealer soon—spend an hour on the highway—and listen to the most eloquent message a motor car ever delivered on its own behalf!

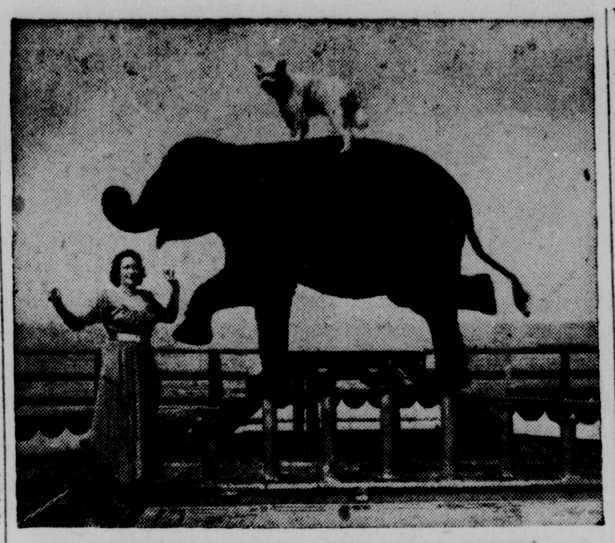
Freshmen Present 'Talent Time' Acts

Although given by amateurs, the Freshman Talent Time acts at the Tipton High School auditorium Saturday evening was presented as seasoned actors might have presented them.

Winners of the four prizes were Mary Lowe, of Bunceton, who won the first prize of $10 in her imitation of Minnie Pearl; second prize, girls' trio, Pat Wehmeir, Kay Billingsley and Colleen Fry, singing "The Banana Boat Song"; Peggy Knipp, saxophone solo, "Demande De Amour" won third prize and Sue Stephens, who twirled, was winner of fourth prize.

Presentation of awards was by Judy Kay Schuster, program chairman.



EDUCATED ELEPHANTS—Little "Judy" of the herd of pygmy elephants seen with the Hagen Bros. Circus, performs a balancing act with a trained dog for a passenger. This is one of the acts which will be seen when the American Legion Post 342 brings this circus to Sedalia April 30.

Legion Post 342 Will Bring Circus to Sedalia on April 30

Many leading newspapers carried the following headline in early August editions last season, "Tented Circuses Have All Closed," but this erroneous statement was quickly corrected, for at that very moment there were 12 tented circuses touring America, after the Greatest Show on Earth had suddenly closed that day.

The American circus is just as traditional as the "Thanksgiving Turkey," and ever mindful of that tradition, the Great Hagen Bros. Circus, sponsored by American Legion Post 342, brings to Sedalia on April 30 for two performances what has been termed America's finest family three-ring circus.

Some 30 trucks and trailers are used to convey this large tented city from town to town; some 200 personnel are employed; a herd of performing elephants; spirited high school horses; ponies; cages of wild beasts; trained wild animals; and the finest of circus artist from all parts of the globe.

Included with the Great Hagen Bros. this season are such outstanding circus and TV artists as the Lancasters, sensational high wire artist; Capt. Christy and his jungle-bred lions in the big steel arena; The Riding Fredricks, Europes most dexterous bareback riding act; The Skating Carltons, wizards on wheels; "Fantasy Land" presented by Miss Patty Couls with her trained cannines and military ponies, and scores of other acts. Heading the horde of clown kingdom is the price of clowndom, Bozo Cooper.

Raising funds for its Boy Scouts project, Post 342 brings this great circus for one day only. Advance tickets are on sale by Legion members and by purchasing tickets in advance, Post 342 shares 50 per cent of all sales.

Four Local Delegates To Prudential Seminar

Four delegates from the Sedalia district office of the Prudential Insurance Company of America will attend a sales seminar of Prudential representatives in Bandera, Tex., April 29 through May 2.

The Sedalia delegation will be headed by E. L. McClung, manager of the Sedalia district, and will include staff manager James N. Harms, Marshall, and agents Robert S. Cole, Mexico, and Kenneth D. Payne, Jefferson City.

The seminar will be held at the Lost Valley Ranch.

About Town

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Campbell, 319 East Broadway, are spending the weekend with their daughter, Mrs. Burbank Young, Mr. Young and children, Susan and Quenton of Liberty. Quenton was christened Saturday afternoon at the Church of the Good Shepherd.

Will Have Hog Demonstration At Versailles

Plans have been completed for the meat type live hog and carcass demonstration to be held at the Morgan County fairgrounds in Versailles at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, April 25.

Two dressed carcasses of hogs will be shown at that time. One will be a meat type carcass and the other will be carrying heavier back fat. One-half of each carcass will be cut up into standard cuts of meat so that both producers and consumers can observe the differences between the two types of hogs.

At the same time, live hogs of similar type and conformation will be shown.

Jim Reynolds, extension marketing specialist, with the cooperation of Jack Woods, local locker plant operator will cut up the carcasses and discuss the differences shown.

Another group of live hogs will be used by William Pugh, extension livestock specialist, to demonstrate back fat probing, since the thickness of back fat is one of the major considerations in determining the market grade of fat hogs.

All hog producers in the county, as well as consumers who use pork products, are invited to attend this event.

JUST JET BLACK — About the only thing connected with a jet, as far as this burro is concerned, is his color. Cmdr. Gordon Moe of Minneapolis, Minn., discovered this when he tried to get some speed out of the burro at Port Lautey, Morocco, where Moe was on a flying training mission as a member of a Naval Reserve unit.

Transportation Limited

DETROIT (AP) — Two 16-year-old high school juniors — Henry Adries and John Dudek — have their own rubber-tire hack.

They bought the 1937 model hearse with a 25-student capacity to transport friends to school parties.

"Girls are a little choosy, though," said Andries. "They'll ride in it to a tobogganing party, but they wouldn't be found dead going in it to church."

Tells How Soil Bank Pay Affects Social Security

Farmers recently have been asking how Soil Bank payments will affect their Social Security, according to Carl E. Johnson, manager of the Pettis County ASC office.

Whether or not the farmer can count his Soil Bank payments toward his Social Security record depends mostly upon whether he meets the requirement of "materially participating" in the production of farm commodities on his land, Johnson said.

Any farmer who operates his own farm and who puts all or part of his land into the Acreage Reserve or Conservation Reserve programs can include the payments in his Social Security income. Tenants or sharecroppers who get income from their share of Soil Bank payments can count that money toward Social Security, since it is assumed that they have been "materially participating" in producing crops.

If an owner rents his farm to a tenant and they ~~put a~~ part of the farm under the Soil Bank, the owner must participate in managing the production of the commodity on the rest of the farm in order to count his share of Soil Bank payments toward his Social Security.

There are several tests for the owner to decide whether he is "materially participating". For instance: if he regularly takes part in making management decisions; if he furnishes at least half the cost, or half the tools, equipment, or livestock for producing the crop; if he advises tenants and inspects production activities regularly; if he works 100 hours or more during a period of at least five weeks in producing the crop, etc.

The Office of Internal Revenue can best supply answers to further questions farmers may have on this matter of "material participation" for Social Security purposes, Johnson said.

Bunceton Senior Play

The Senior Class of Bunceton High School will present "Let's Face It", a three-act comedy, on April 25 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Bunceton High School.

The cast includes Louie Wood, Cora Stegner, Bonnie Doudna, Lester Brandes, Wayne Kahle, Jenny Baughman, Ramona Serck, Marcella Moore, Gale Lenz, Donald Odneal, Wesley Brizendine and Janice Gibson. C. M. White, class sponsor, is directing the play.

Civil Penalty Likely For Some Violations Of Soil Bank Program

Farmers should understand that a civil penalty may be imposed upon any producer who knowingly and willfully violates certain provisions of the Soil Bank's Acreage Reserve program, C. A. Staples, chairman of the Pettis County ASC committee, said this week.

A farmer can be penalized for grazing or harvesting any crop from any acreage in violation of a Soil Bank agreement or contract.

The amount of the civil penalty equals 50 per cent of the payment which the farmer would have received if he had complied with the contract. This penalty is in addition to any amounts that the farmer must forfeit or refund under the provisions of the agreement.

Staples explained that a farmer can be penalized for grazing or harvesting any crop from any acreage designated as Acreage Reserve, and also for harvesting acreage over the "acreage permitted for harvest." The "acreage permitted for harvest" would be the allotment for the crop covered by the agreement less the acreage designated for the Soil Bank Acreage Reserve.

Booming Business and Jets Clouding Airport Horizons

By P. D. ELDRED

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—What are the nation's major commercial airports, with traffic already cluttering the skies, doing to get ready for the jet age?

By early 1959, the swift jets are expected to be streaking across coupntry at around 600 m.p.h. carrying from 150 to 200 passengers each flight.

To accommodate these noisy, high flying planes, with more than twice the speed and carrying capacity of the propeller-driven transports operating today, the big airports are going all out on costly, tremendously complicated expansion programs.

It isn't just a matter of getting set to take jet aircraft.

It also is spurred by the necessity to keep pace with the phenomenal growth of all air travel.

Big Cities Busy

Efforts to keep abreast of requirements are especially feverish at the huge international terminals —Chicago, New York, Washington, Los Angeles, Miami and Boston — from which the thirsty jets will be taking off with full fuel loads.

Some idea of the comparative size of these jet monsters, on which United States air carriers are venturing two billion dollars in a bid for jet age leadership, can be gained by their weight.

It is estimated that the big, swept-wing jet transports coming into production will weigh, when fully loaded for overseas flight, around 265,000 pounds — of which 85,000 will be jet fuel.

The largest, four-engined commercial planes carrying passengers on scheduled airplines today weigh around 117,000 pounds with a full load.

Within the limits of what is what is known about jet operations —and there are several things that will have to be learned by experience — the technical problems gradually are being worked out.

Runways are being lengthened and strengthened, terminal facilities are being enlarged, traffic control systems are being improved and additional aircraft loading positions built.

At San Francisco International Airport, worth 50 million dollars already, an additional 25 millions have been authorized for expansion. Around the country, the expense can be expected to run into millions at every major airport.

Noise Still Problem

What to do about jet noise or, as one official put it, "how to get along with the neighbors," is a touchy issue, with no solution in sight.

Edward B. Newill, manager of the Allison Division of General Motors at Indianapolis, which is making many of the jet engines flying today, commented:

"Noise suppression devices currently being developed may cut down jet aircraft noises somewhat but jet noise is here to stay and we may as well get used to it."

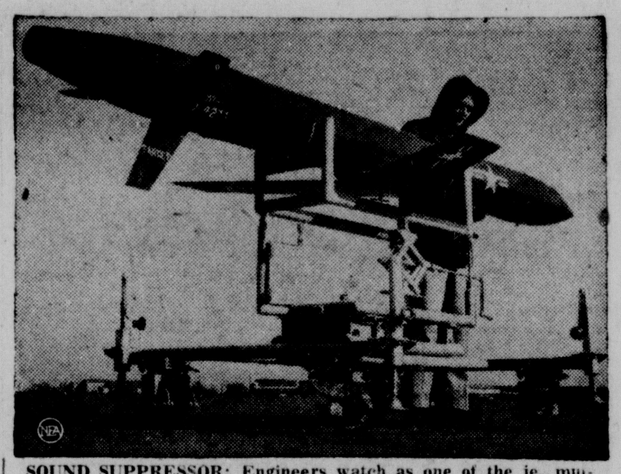
However, there is apparent determination in some cities to require the aircraft industry to do something about it.

New York's Port Authority, controlling four airports, has taken the stand that jets cannot come in until the noise level is reduced to "an acceptable point."

Several contraptions are being developed to suppress jet blast. Boeing Aircraft, which holds orders for 134 commercial jet transports, has under development a noise suppressor which it maintains will cut engine noise to acceptable levels.

Realization that "air space" has been shrinking at an alarming rate over all major population centers is causing airport operators to give considerable thought to how jets and prop-driven transports flying at less than half their speed will fit into traffic patterns.

"The jets will have to mix right in with the landing patterns of other commercial aircraft," one informed source declared. "The trend of things now . . . is to make jets conform to currently existing commercial aircraft procedures. This is merely an effort: whether it can be achieved remains to be seen."



SOUND SUPPRESSOR: Engineers watch as one of the je. mufflers being developed by Boeing to cut down on engine noise is mounted on the prototype of the company's 707 civilian transport

Weimholt Joins Honor Society at Rolla

On March 27, James E. Weimholt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Weimholt, 103 East 28th, was among 15 undergraduate members initiated into Gama Theta Chapter of Eta Kappa Nu, at Missouri School of Mines, Rolla, Mo.

Eta Kappa Nu is an Electrical Engineering Honor Society whose purpose is best stated in the words of the preamble to its constitution: "That those men in the profession of electrical engineering who, by their attainments in college or in practice, have manifested a deep interest and marked ability in their chosen life work, may be brought into closer union whereby mutual benefit may be derived."

Selection for membership in Eta Kappa Nu is made on the basis of scholastic achievement, personality, and promise of success.

A STARK REMINDER OF TRAGEDY, this blackened shell was all that remained of a private home for the aged in Warrenton, Mo., after fire snuffed out the lives of 70 residents.

Disastrous Fires Spur US Probe Of Private Homes for the Aged

By KENNETH GILMORE

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The federal government's spotlight may soon be beamed at crowded and dangerous conditions in private nursing and old age homes across the country.

It is already probing in two states where disasters have occurred.

This comes mainly as a result of the blaze which recently swept an old age home in Warrenton, Mo., snuffing out over 70 lives.

The tragedy has spurred Uncle Sam to take a hard look at public assistance programs that feed federal relief funds to feeble and aged persons in private institutions.

It has brought to light the unhappy fact that some states may not be enforcing standards of safety set up for these homes.

Under the law, states that receive funds for old age assistance on a matching basis from the government must establish standards for nursing homes when residents of these homes receive payments. Practically every state in the Union operates under this arrangement.

It is now revealed that the Social Security Administration has asked Missouri to provide names of any victims of the Warrenton fire who received public assistance checks.

A similar inquiry is being made in Iowa where a convalescent home in Council Bluffs burned, killing 14 persons just five days before the Warrenton disaster.

"We're checking into the situation in these states to see whether they have carried out their responsibilities," explains Jay Roney, Director of the SSA Bureau of Public Assistance.

"We want to find the reasons for laxity in applying standards of safety and operation."

Officials at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare all agree that the headline - making Missouri fire dramatizes the critical problem of housing for the nation's senior citizens.

And some feel that it will stir action both on the local level and here in Washington to improve conditions.

"If anything, it's going to make many communities realize that such a fire could have occurred in their own backyard," says one member of the department's staff on aging.

The key question right now, however, is what action the U.S. plans to take against states who fail to carry out regulations protecting institutions where federal money is channelled.

"If what we find out in Missouri and Iowa indicates a need for more information and further inquiry, then we'll have to go ahead," says Roney.

By that he means that other states might need to be checked as to their enforcement of old age home conditions.

"It's conceivable that the outgrowth of this would be amendments of the public assistance plans calling for more assurances from the states to stick to their standards," says Roney.

He's careful to add that it's too early to say this will come about with any certainty.

There is no question that a step in this direction would kick up a storm of protest from many states who jealously guard their right to control local conditions. Numerous states are unhappy with present set-ups that require federal standards when public assistance is involved.

Today there are some 25,000 private nursing and convalescent homes in the U.S., but many of them are in such poor condition that states have written them off in estimating their present needs.

Under the Hill-Burton Act, which has been in effect three years, 12 million dollars have been appropriated especially for nursing homes in 35 states.

At present 61 of these homes are in the planning or construction stage at a cost of eight to ten million dollars in federal funds, matched by 20 million dollars from the states.

They'll operate as non-profit or public agencies and should help to ease off the tremendous demand for such facilities.

Congress is being asked to appropriate another five million dollars during this session for the following fiscal year.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Elaine Bail, Leonard M. Koeller

Miss Doris Elaine Bail became the bride of Leonard M. Koeller at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, April 7, at the First Baptist Church. The Rev. T. W. Croxton, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar setting consisting of a large central bouquet of white gladioli and pink snap dragons, flanked on each side by wrought iron candelabra holding white tapers and next to the candelabra were jade trees.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Clarence Bail, 1002 East Tenth, and the late Mr. Bail. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Koeller.

Mrs. Paul Berthouex played a medley of organ music. The songs, "With This Ring," "To a Wild Rose"; "Forever," "Indian Love Call" were played preceding the ceremony. "At Dawning" was played while the tapers were being lighted by Miss Suzanne Holst and Mrs. Richard Rodick. The candlelighters were attired in identical pastel pink floor length gowns with fitted bodice of lace and net, and lace over-jacket. The full skirts were of tulle and net over taffeta. Their headbands were of pink net and they wore wrist corsages of pink carnations.

Larry S. Owen, soloist, sang "Always," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Darrell W. Bail, wore a frost white gown of nylon tulle and French lace over bridal satin. The fitted bodice was fashioned with an elongated waist, long tapering sleeves, and a scoop neckline outlined with wide scallops of lace edging. The very bouffant skirt was of three layers of tulle over shimmering satin gathered at the waistline and worn over crinolines. Her elbow-length veil of tulle was attached to a white satin half hat trimmed with tiny pearls. She wore a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, pink sweetheart roses, and white stephanotis from which fell white satin streamers with love knots.

Mrs. Darrell W. Bail, served her sister-in-law as matron of honor. She wore a pastel green, floor length gown of tulle and net over taffeta and carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations. Her head band was of matching net.

Mrs. Robert Moon, friend of the bride, served as bridesmaid. Her floor length dress was of avocado nylon tulle and net over taffeta, and matching headband. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations.

Charles Amos served as best man and the groomsman was Robert Harvey. The ushers were Ardell Trotter and Armand Weaver, Sedalia; Robert Bail, Boonville; and Don Bail, Pilot Grove, all cousins of the bride.

Miss Julia Ann Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Harvey Jr., Green Ridge, was the flower girl and wore a floor length dress of white nylon Georgette, trimmed with lace and tiny pastel green bows. She wore a wrist corsage of pink carnations and carried a flower basket with pink flower petals.

Master David Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Armand Weaver, and Master Nicky Fowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Pryce Fowler, were ringbearers and carried heart-shaped satin pillows.

The bride's mother wore a two-piece dress of dusty rose Bouclace, with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church dining hall. The lace covered table held the four-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and surrounded with fern and white stephanotis. White tapers, mints, and a crystal punch bowl also adorned the table. Serving at the reception table were Mrs. Armand Weaver, Miss Ruth Elaine Buchholz, and Miss Bonnie Schrader. Miss Schrader was also in charge of the guest book.

For her going away ensemble, the bride wore a beige linen sheath dress and beige topper coat with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

The couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., Florida and other southern states.

The bride graduated from Smith-Cotton High School with the class of 1955 and is employed with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The bridegroom graduated from Smith-Cotton High School with the class of 1951 and is employed as manager of the Midwest Auto Store in Warrensburg.

Pre-Nuptial Parties Honor Elaine Bail

Several showers were given for Miss Elaine Bail before her recent marriage to Leonard M. Koeller

A miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Elaine Bail, was given by Mrs. Floyd Kerns and Mrs. John Houston at the Kern's home. The home was decorated for the occasion with streamers centering above a table on which the gifts were placed. Friends and relatives enjoyed the games and refreshments.

The Young Women's Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church gave a party honoring Miss Bail at the home of Mrs. O. A. Potter, counselor. Games were played and were followed by refreshments served from a linen covered table, above which hung streamers and wedding bells. After refreshments, the girls presented Elaine with a gift. Elaine's mother, Mrs. Bail and sister-in-law, Mrs. Darrell Bail were visitors.

Mrs. Bob Moon and Mrs. A. J. Weaver served as hostesses at a miscellaneous shower at the Weaver home. A picture window was decorated with streamers and shower spray above an umbrella, covered with pastel spring colors. The spring bridal theme was carried out in the games. After Elaine opened the gifts, refreshments were served. Tiny umbrellas were given as favors.

Attention Brides

Attention all brides and the brides-to-be: Beginning Sunday, April 28, we will revive an old policy concerning bridal photographs. To have your picture appear in a Sunday edition it must be in the newsroom within 15 days following the ceremony. Pictures received later will appear in a weekday edition. All pictures must be in the newsroom before or by Thursday if they are to appear in the Sunday edition. Thus if you were married April 14 your picture could be in the paper April 21 or April 28.

If you're puzzled by accent colors to combine with the popular metallic gold and white wallpaper schemes;—attractive compliments are butterscotch and turquoise, or willow green and cinnamon, or mustard yellow and grape lavender.

Remember gold metallics have predominent casts of green, yellow or red, but will blend with almost every color on the wheel.

Happy Easter.

Anne Bowland, H. Hudson Jr. Wed Friday Eve

The Methodist Church in Knob Noster was the scene for the wedding of Miss Anne Bowland and Herman J. Hudson Jr. which took place at half past seven o'clock Friday evening, April 12. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Raymond Rumbo before an altar decorated with baskets of spring flowers and lilies illuminated by lighted tapers in two seven branch caldelabra.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bowland of Knob Noster and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hudson Sr., Piney River, Va.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Mary Hogan played "Nocturne" from A Midsummer Night's Dream and "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden", "Always" and "I Love You Truly". The traditional wedding marches were used.

Mrs. Raymond Rumbo sang "Because" preceding the ceremony and as the couple knelt at the altar she sang "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a light blue box suit with beige accessories and carried a pink carnation corsage on a white Bible. She wore a gold locket that belonged to her grandmother Bowland and which was worn by her mother and two sisters on their wedding days.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Calkin, Windsor, were the only attendants. Mrs. Calkin, sister of the bride, wore a blue suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Simon Bowland, brother of the bride, and Joe Helms ushered and lighted the candles.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Bowland chose a dusty rose crepe dress and white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

A reception was held in the church annex immediately following the ceremony

Mrs. Don Helms, Mrs. Paul Galloway and Mrs. Leonard Clark served the cake and punch. Mrs. William Leary had charge of the guest book.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Birmingham, Ala. to visit the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. William Wagner and family, and his parents, who are also visiting there.

After their return Easter Sunday they will be at home at 1324 South Grand.

The bride is a 1956 graduate of Knob Noster High School.

The groom graduated from Fleetwood High School, Massies Mill, Va. and served four years with the Air Force. He is employed by Schien Truck Lines, Sedalia.

Among the out of town guests were Mrs. Edwin Bechtel, sister of the bride, and her children, Joyce Anne and Charles Walter of Arkansas City, Kansas.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Rife, Knob Noster, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Janet, to Leroy Carney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Carney, Lincoln. The wedding will take place June 15 at the Methodist Church in Lincoln.

Hold Open House On Their 64th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maloney, Syracuse, celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary with open house at their home Sunday, April 14. Approximately 100 guests and all the children except Lee of Bijou, Calif., attended. It was also Mrs. Maloney's 84th birthday. She wore a rose pink linen dress and a yellow corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Maloney both seemed to enjoy the day very much and met the guests with a hearty handshake and a big smile.

Miss Nevada Hickam, sister of Mrs. Maloney, was the only person present who had attended the wedding in 1893. She was bridesmaid.

Punch and cake were served by the daughters, Mrs. Henry Bird and Mrs. Walter Klein, assisted by Miss Karen Sue Klein, great-granddaughter. A large angel food cake was baked and sent to the Maloneys by Mrs. M. Bahrenburg, Warrensburg, who is over 88 years old.

The house was decorated with potted flowers and bouquets of spring flowers, gifts of friends and relatives.

Mrs. Victor Alan Benton

Joella Brereton, Victor Benton Exchange Vows In Dallas, Texas

In a double ring ceremony, Miss Joella Brereton, Dallas, Tex., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Brereton, 1008 South Missouri, and Victor Alan Benton, Dallas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor C. Benton, Fort Worth, Tex., were united in marriage at eight-thirty, the evening of March 30 in the Twin Oaks Baptist Church, Fort Worth, by Tirey G. Samsill, minister of the Church of Christ, before an altar setting of white gladiola, stocks and ferns, flanked by two seven-branch candelabra and palms.

Miss Darla Faye Hensley, Fort Worth, cousin of the bridegroom, played a selection of wedding music including the Bridal Chorus and the traditional wedding march.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz length gown of white lace, fashioned with strapless bodice outlined with iridescent sequins, tapering into princess lines, and covered by a short lace bolero with three-quarter length sleeves and round neckline outlined with sequins in flower shape, complimented by short white gloves. A crown of pearls held a double elbow length veil of white net. The bride carried a white Bible with an orchid placed on stephanotis and streamers of white ribbon tied in lovers' knots.

The maid of honor, Miss Ruby Fossen, Dallas, wore a street length beige faille dress fashioned in princess lines with short cap sleeves and a V neckline. She wore gold accessories and a headclip of pink flowers holding a short beige veil. A white carnation corsage graced her shoulder.

Ronald A. Sawyer, Dallas, served as best man. Ushers were Gerald Benton, uncle of the bridegroom, and Leon Trebble.

Little Miss Falah Ellen Benton, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a light green and white organdy dress with puff sleeves and full skirt, with short net mitts and a white veil falling from a headclip of pink flowers. She carried pink petals in a small white basket.

Both the mother of the bride and the mother of the bridegroom wore navy, with navy accessories and white carnation corsages.

A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents immediately after the ceremony. A three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, was placed on the right of the bride's table which was centered by a crystal punch bowl. Miss Ruby Fossen and Miss Darla Faye Hensley served. Mrs. Willy Stephans, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book.

After the reception, the couple left for a short wedding trip. The bride wore a beige two piece outfit with full skirt of lace and ribbon over taffeta, complimented by a beige jersey top with boat neckline dipping to a V in the back, and a satin cummberbund. She wore a princess line silk-wool coat in beige with an orchid enhancing the costume.

The couple is now at home in Dallas.

The bride, a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, class of 1954, was society editor of the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, from the fall of 1955 until December, 1956. She also attended the University of Missouri, and is presently employed at TEMCO Aircraft Corporation in Dallas.

The bridegroom was graduated from Paschal High School, Fort Worth, class of 1953, and served three years in the U.S. Army, including 18 months in Korea. He is now associated with International Business Machine Co. in Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Benton are spending the Easter weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brereton.

Woman Is Found Dead at Home Near Edwards

Mrs. Annie Upton, 89, of rural route Edwards, Mo., was found dead at her home Saturday by Jim Thomas who had gone to the residence to take some fire wood.

Thomas upon his arrival didn't see Mrs. Upton around, and entered the home. He then notified Sheriff Bob White at Warsaw and Dr. Gus Sally, Benton County coroner, who made an investigation.

Dr. Sally stated he believed the woman died about two days ago from natural causes.

The body was removed to the Reser Funeral Home where funeral services are to be conducted at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon. Burial will be in the Cable Ridge cemetery near Edwards.

Sheriff White and Dr. Sally, in checking over the residence, found bank deposits and money estimated at about $5,000. Several old fashioned ten-dollar bills were found in the house.

Mrs. Mirtie McCampbell, Windsor, a niece, was notified of the death of her aunt and made funeral arrangements. Several other nieces and nephews survive.

Suffers Slight Hurts in 'Fall' From Moving Car

Something happened at the curve just north of Warsaw at the south end of the Lay Flats Saturday when a man either fell, jumped or was pushed from an automobile. He was treated for bruises and cuts by Dr. Gus Sally at his office in Warsaw.

Sheriff Bob White and Trooper Glenn Means investigated the incident. According to the officers, the man was riding with a young lady at the time. After he "hit the pavement", she continued driving and continued to Warsaw.

A report was received at Warsaw of the man lying on the pavement and Reser's ambulance was dispatched to the scene. He was taken by ambulance to the office of Dr. Sally for treatment.

Later the woman driver was found and she reported she didn't think he was hurt. She took him back in the car and they started back to Kansas City.

Collective Guidance

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The men whose business it is to collect delinquent accounts don't want to be known as bill collectors. They would rather be thought of as "guidance workers" helping people who have mismanaged their budgets.

That was the opinion expressed by collection agents attending a central states conference of the American Collectors' Assn.

"People need assistance to get out of debt and modern collectors try to help those people," said Paul A. Root, operator of a collection bureau at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Ex-Sedalian

at 9 a. m. Monday morning. The inquest will be held at the pumping station where the town board meets.

Charges of careless and reckless driving were filed against Dodson in the Morgan County Magistrate Court. A warrant for his arrest was brought to Sedalia Saturday night by Sheriff J. T. Hull, Morgan County, and given to Deputy Sheriff Ed George of Pettis County to be served on the young man, Sunday.

According to the sheriff, the bond will be set at $1,000.

The Koenke's wrecker at Syracuse was rushed to the scene within a few minutes after it was reported Edwards was trapped in the car. When they arrived, Edwards was already dead and no effort was made to remove the body until after Coroner Bartram arrived.

The left side of the 1957 Plymouth coach driven by Edwards was smashed. The 1950 Mercury tudor car driven by Dodson was smashed in on the front end. Both cars were demolished.

The automobiles were towed to Syracuse by the Koenke's wrecker.

The body was brough to Sedalia and taken to the Ewing Funeral Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards and daughter were enroute to Sedalia to spend Easter Sunday visiting with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Edwards, 1207 East 14th, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Arnold, 1204 West 16th.

They had called their parents Friday and remarked then they would not come to Sedalia until late Saturday evening, and apparently had arranged their affairs in Moberly and got away earlier to be here earlier Saturday. The families were shocked when notified of the accident and at first could not believe it was their children.

Edwards was staff manager for the Prudential Life Insurance Co., at Moberly. He had been with the company since February, 1951, and in January 1956 was promoted to his present position in charge of the Moberly office.

He was a member of the Kiwanis Club of Moberly, and of the Baptist church there. Prior to moving to Moberly he was a member of the East Sedalia Baptist Church of which he served as a trustee, and a member of the Masonic Lodge here.

He was born in Sedalia May 16, 1923, the son of Elwood I. and Edna Mae Edwards. He was reared and educated in Sedalia and graduated from Smith-Cotton High School. He also attended the University of North Dakota.

He was married Sept. 20, 1942, just prior to his entering the service during World War II. He was married to Miss Mildred C. Arnold ,daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Arnold.

William served in the infantry and was overseas. He participated in the Battle of the Bulge. He returned to Sedalia in the early part of 1946.

Surviving him besides his wife and daughter are his parents, and one brother, Jack Edwards, 1507 East Seventh, his grandmother, Mrs. Walter L. Williams, 600 East 16th, and an uncle, Clarence Williams, 600 East 16th.

Urges Wool Producers To Seek Top Prices

C. A. Staples, chairman of the Pettis County ASC committee, this week urged local producers to continue their efforts to get the best price possible in selling their wool. The higher the market price the producer gets for his wool, the higher his incentive payment will be under the government Wool Program, he said.

This is because of the method of making payments, which is on a percentage basis. The per cent is determined according to the amount needed to bring up the national price all producers received for wool to the incentive level of 62 cents per pound, grease basis.

Under the 1955 program, this payment percentage was 44.9 per cent, which meant that producers received a payment of $44.90 for every $100 they received from the sale of wool. Lamb payments are determined from the incentive payment for wool and under the 1955 program amounted to 77 cents per hundredweight for unshorn lambs marketed.

A's Squander Lead, Yield to White Sox

Chicago Remains Unbeaten

Athletics Lead 6-0 After Two, But Lose 11-7

CHICAGO, April 20—(AP)—Catcher Sherm Lollar's five RRI's paced the Chicago White Sox to a wild 11-7 triumph over the Kansas City Athletics today and kept the Pale Hose apace with the New Yankees atop the American League standings.

Lollar smashed a two-run homer, a two-run double and drove in a fifth run with a sacrifice fly.

Down 6-0 after the first two Athletic innings, the Sox clubbed five Kansas City pitchers for 14 hits and their third straight decision. The A's banged 12 hits, but 8 were in the first 3 innings.

The winner, and fourth White Sox pitcher, was Dixie Howell, who entered the game in the sixth and held the A's scoreless while scatering three hits the final four innings.

The loser was the No. 3 Kansas City pitcher, Tom Gorman, who was victim of Lollar's two-run double in the sixth inning which pushed the Sox ahead 8-7.

The A's chased Sox starter Dick Donovan with a four-run first on a five-hit attack which featured Lou Skizas' two-run double. Skizas also homered in the fifth off Gerry Staley, who had supplanted Jim McDonald, Donovan's successor, after the second.

Gene Host, 24-year-old rookie up from Charleston of the American Assn., started for the A's, but after being rocked for five hits and three runs in the second, gave way to Virgil Trucks with none out in the third.

Trucks was jolted for another three-run Sox cluster in the fourth on a walk, Minnie Minoso's double and Lollar's second homer of the season.

That tied the score at 6-6, but the A's moved ahead for the last time on Skizas' homer in the fifth, 7-6.

The Sox picked up two insurance runs off Rinny Duren in the seventh on two walks, a stolen base, Minoso's single and Lollar's sacrifice fly.

Sedalia Sub-District Site

163 Teams to Compete In State Prep Baseball

The eighth annual Missouri High School basketball tournament has attracted an entry list of 163 teams, 28 more than last year.

One of the sub-district eliminations will be played here on the Liberty Park baseball diamond. This, and all other sub-district games, must be played off by May 4.

The first hurdle in the competition will be the 22 sub-district tournaments, which must be completed by May 4. The survivors go into the 16 district tournaments, which must be completed by the week ending May 11. The sectional tournaments, of which there are eight, are to be completed by May 18.

The final series will be played in St. Louis, May 23, 24 and 25.

Sites for the sub-district eliminations are: Hornersville, Wardell, Fish—Rombauer, Doniphan, Alton, West Plains, Branson, Fairview, Jasper, Joplin, North Kansas City, Sedalia, Shelbina, Brashear, Jefferson City, Washington, Rolla, Ironton, Perryville, Festus, Sikeston and Cape Girardeau.

District tournaments will be held at Hornersville, Fisk-Rombauer, West Plains, Branson, Joplin, North Kansas City, Brashear, Jefferson City, Rolla, Festus, Cape Girardeau and St. Louis, which will have five district playoffs at Maplewood, Normandy, Ritenour, McBride, and Roosevelt.

The eight sectional tournaments will be held at Fisk-Rombauer, West Plains, Nevada, and at Maplewood, Normandy, Ritenour, Roosevelt and McBride in the St. Louis area.

Winners of the eight sectional tournaments will play in the final meet at St. Louis.

End advance for use at 6 p. m. CST tonight, Saturday, April 20.

SEDALIA'S PRIDE—The new modified stock car which was built this past winter by Dick Cole and Don Cooper of the Cole-Cooper Electric Co., to be raced this season on the tracks in Central Missouri. The car is to be driven by Cooper, well experienced in handling this type of racing vehicle. (Padgett Photo).

Sedalian Poses Strong Threat

Modified Stock Cars to Lift Lid on Area Circuit April 28

Spring weather not only has brought out baseball, tennis, golf and numerous other sports, but the opening of the season for modified stock car racing. The official Central Missouri Racing Association opening will be on Sunday, April 28, on the Sportsmen Speedway at Marshall.

The field of cars and drivers is bigger and better than ever according to officials of the CMRA. They were quoted as declaring the cars are being built a little lighter, faster and much safer the latter being stressed by the association.

There is a larger variety of makes of cars this year some of which have already been registered and others known to participate: two Pontiacs each from Columbia and Marshall; three Studebakers from the town of the State Champion "Torch" Alshire of Moberly; a Mercury from Slater; two Thunderbirds from Windsor; five or six Chevrolets from Richmond, Marshall, Slater, Jefferson City.

One of the strongest entries comes from Sedalia which is owned by the Cole-Cooper Electric Service on South Kentucky. The pilot of this car is Don Cooper, one of the electric company owners, who resumed his modified stock car driving when he returned from service in the Navy in 1956.

This car is equipped with a Corvette Chevrolet motor and built the past winter by Cooper and Dick Cole. They have spared no expense in building and equipping the car with the thought in mind in taking over some of the winning limelight on the Missouri tracks this season.

Cooper began racing prior to entering the service in the Jalopy days racing in cow pastures. He began his career at California, Mo., but his driving was interrupted by a "hitch" in the U. S. Navy.

Last year he hurriedly built a car and raced at Marshall, Sweet Springs, Warrensburg and Clinton, but had little success. At the close of the season he declared he would have a winner for '57 and spent a great deal of time working out the plans for this new car.

He will be seen in the opening at Marshall. The races will be run on Sunday afternoon with time trials starting at 2 o'clock. The afternoon races will be held until Decoration Day when they will be put on a night schedule with trials starting at 7:30 p. m.

To add to activity of modified stock car racing a new track is being built at Moberly and it is understood to be under the supervision of the CMRA sanction. The opening date will be announced later.

Some of the drivers who are anxiously awaiting the starting flag are: Alshire of Moberly; Cooper of Sedalia; Taylor of Slater; Hibbard Bros., Slater; Mikels of Marshall; the Windsor twosome, Ackers and Roberson; Sorrell of Columbia; Marr of Jefferson City; Morrow and Cromley also of Marshall; "Shorty" McGinnes of Richmond; Powell of Warsaw; Dennis of Clinton, and numerous others.

Tuesday's Mat Card Features Six-Man Clash

TUESDAY'S WRESTLING CARD

Mighty Atlas, 225, Hollywood; Joe Dusek, 233, Omaha, and Rip Hawk, 224, Toledo, Ohio, vs. Gentleman Jim Dobie, 226, Independence, Mo.; Thor Hagen, 230, Minneapolis, and Larry Hamilton, 232, St. Joseph, Mo. Best two out of three falls, or a 60-minute time limit.

SEMI-WINDUP

Thor Hagen vs. Joe Dusek. Best two out of three falls, or a 45-minute time limit.

OPENING EVENT

Larry Hamilton vs. Rip Hawk. One fall, or a 30-minute time limit.

Matches sponsored by Pettis American Legion Post.

For the first time in Sedalia's current wrestling history there will be a six-man tag team match topping the program in the Armory ring Tuesday night.

Swamped with hundreds of requests to sign a six-man tag clash for the local arena, Legion Matchmaker Gust Karras has spared no effort or expense in signing a slam-dinger for Tuesday.

Three of the nation's roughest heavyweights—Mighty Atlas, Joe Dusek and Rip Hawk—will band together to pit their combined strong-arm measures against three nationally famous scientific-styled mat stars—Larry Hamilton, Gentleman Jim Dobie and Thor Hagen.

It will be Hagen, reigning Missouri state champion, who will guide the mat fortunes of his team in the triple barreled attack against the treacherous opposing trio captained by Mighty Atlas.

All six contestants involved in the six-man tag battle are nationally-rated heavyweights. In announcing the contracting of the team match, Karras said that he doubted if two more evenly matched three-man teams could be located anywhere in the United States.

"We are truly fortunate to sign up six such evenly matched wrestlers," the matchmaker added. "Without question this is the most outstanding tag team attraction ever brought to the Armory and it will be fulfilling the desires of countless fans who have been urging the Legion to bring a top team event to Sedalia."

Dusek, claiming that he has been sidetracked in the title picture this spring, will pit his powerhouse wrestling tactics against Hagen in the semi-windup which precedes the team battle. Hagen will not be required to put the state title on the line in this match but the popular Minnesotan will be staking something of almost equal importance—his national mat prestige—in the individual square-off with Joe.

If Dusek wins the best-of-three falls showdown then Hagen can no longer sidetrack an actual title matching with the leader of the Omaha "wrecking crew." Actually Hagen hasn't been trying to avoid a meeting with Dusek. He has been kept busy ever since wrestling the title from blond and bully Bob Orton.

The opener Tuesday brings Hawk up against Hamilton in a renewal of their long-standing rivalry.

The matches Tuesday night will get under way at 8:15 with the Armory doors opening at 7:15. Tickets are now on advance sale at the Pacific Cafe and Midway Shoe Repair Shop.

Tigers Fifth At Marshall

North Kansas City Wins Valley Relays

Smith-Cotton High, experiencing a semi-drought in track this year, ran fifth in a field of seven teams in the Missouri Valley high school relays held at Marshall last Tuesday.

North Kansas City, recent winner of the state indoor meet, took the Valley championship with 66 points, while Marshall, developing as a Central Missouri track power this season, sped into a close second with 60 points.

Kansas City East placed third with 54, Mexico took fourth with 32, and Smith-Cotton followed with 21. William Chrisman scored 19 for sixth and Moberly was seventh with 14.

Smith-Cotton failed to gain any firsts but did have three seconds. Dick Morris finished second in the mile run, Bob Walch was second in the pole vault, and Bob Spraggins was runner-up in the high jump. Ed Hall placed fourth in both the shot put and discus events.

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

WHAT price Yankee Glory? was well put in the column of Bob Addie, Sporting News, when he referred to one of Warsaw and Sedalia's pride and joys of professional baseball, recently. He said, after his famous question—Jerry Lumpe and Marv Throneberry probably could make any other big league team, but the Yanks have no room for them, so back they go to the Minors.

Addie also pointed out that it has been estimated the odds against a player making the big leagues are 450-1.

Certainly those who know Jerry feel he is a "right guy" and deserves any chance which might come. But being in the Yankee farm system is a hurdle to start with.

About his only chance is for someone on the "main roster" to fall down and get banged up which would put him out of play for several months. Otherwise, it looks as if Jerry will have to be one of the mainstays of the Richmond ball club for another season or two.

It appears as if a new Director of the Missouri Conservation Commission will be chosen this weekend and it may be a Missourian. At least it is rummored the Commission is down to two men, having checked, rechecked and eliminated applicants down to two Missourians, a good source says.

Dan Saults, former Knob Noster boy and former Knob Noster Gem newspaper publisher, now the director of information section of the Missouri wildlife agency, is one. The other is another member of the wildlife agency, Bill Towell, present acting director.

Mel Steen, formerly with the Missouri Conservation Commission and now with the Nebraska Game and Fish Commission, was included as a third choice. Steen, however, recently remarked, "I'm happy right here" and that indicates he is out of the running. Before going to Nebraska he was chief of the fish and game division of the Missouri Commission.

Of course we people around these parts would like to see Dan get the boost to the top job. He is well qualified, well liked and, I believe, would make an excellent man for the Commission. Certainly he is tops in public relations and this the Conservation Commission can use. He has done a good job for the Commission in the past few years.

Dan has pulled the Commission, at least to my way of thinking, out of some hot water several times, in all due respect to I. T. Bode who resigned and left the job open.

Taking nothing away from Towell, he too, is well qualified and has done a good job for the Commission in the various posts he has held, along with being assistant director for several years. He was named acting director at the time of Jay Morrow, who took Bode's place after his resignation. Towell has been filling in for about a year now.

Both men have their friends, both men are good, and in the event of either being appointed, there is little doubt the other will be there helping to see that he carries on a good job.

THE acceptance of the Sedalia Athletics in the Missouri Valley League assures Sedalia baseball fans some lively competition in semi-pro baseball. At least when the A's are playing ball they will be playing for something, a standing, a championship, something worthwhile for a change. It won't be just to play and win another game. The incentive will be there for the players to play and really enjoy league competition.

The appointment of Salty Shoemaker as manager of the local team also assures the local players of a young man who knows his baseball and will handle the team well.

A pre-season tournament will be played at Moberly, May 5, which should inspire an early turnout of ball players to try out for the squad.

Sedalia Athletics To Hold Practice At 1:30 Today

Local baseball players interested in trying out for the Sedalia Athletics team are requested to report for practice at 1:30 p. m. today at Liberty Park. Efforts will be started to get the team organized and on its way for the 1957 season.

Salty Shoemaker, who has been named playing manager of the team, is hoping for a big tournout today. Sedalia players can expect some competition and the best will be chosen to play on the squad.

The old "stand-bys" are urged to be in attendance. Some will no doubt be selected to play, while others who don't feel they can make the team can be of great assistance to Salty in handling some of the newcomers who have graduat- from Ban Johnson baseball and are now seeking semi-pro teams to play with.

Sedalia must whip a team into shape by Sunday, May 5, when the pre-season Missouri Valley League tournament will be played at Moberly.

NCAA Committee To Meet Monday

KANSAS CITY, April 2—(AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association's committee on infractions will open a three-day meeting at New Orleans Monday.

Walter Byers, executive director, said the fact-gathering agency for the NCAA's enforcement program will consider several pending cases for presentation to the NCAA Council later this spring.

Byers did not list the pending cases. He said the four-man committee treats all cases as confidential until they are reported to and announced by the Council.

Detroit Captures First Win of 7-0

Bold Ruler Is Winner In Stretch at Jamaica

NEW YORK, April 20—(AP)—Bold Ruler answered all the questions today when he outfought Gallant Man in a spine-tingling stretch duel to win the $59,400 Wood Memorial at Jamaica in track record time before a screaming crowd of 42,122.

In a horse race as sensational as the 1955 Wood when Nashua eged out Summer Tan right at the wire, Eddie Arcaro whipped and slashed at Bold Ruler's hide and the speedy Wheatley Stable's colt from behind with a desperate lunge in the final stride to win by a nose.

The victory handsomely qualified Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps' colt for the Kentucky Derby May 4.

K.U. Eclipses Mark in Relay

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 20—(AP)—The host Kansas Jayhawks bettered the intercollegiate record for the four-mile relay in the blistering time of 16:57.8 in the 32nd annual Kansas Relays today.

The Kansas team of Hal Long, Tom Skutka, Jan Howell and Jerry McNeal won without a chase as second place Arkansas finished at least 200 yards away.

The recognized intercollegiate record of 17:08.6 was set by Michigan's John Moule, Bill Hickman, John Ross and Don McEwen in 1952.

Unofficial breakdown for each mile for the Jayhawk runners gave Long a 4:12.9, Skutka 4:17.2, Howell 4:15.0 and McNeal 4:12.7.

Hoeft Again Rejected By Military After Exam

DETROIT (AP)—Billy Hoeft of the Detroit Tigers again has been rejected for military service.

The Tigers' ace southpaw, a 20-game winner in 1956, was examined by Selective Service officials for the third time a few weeks ago in Milwaukee. He originally was classified 4F several years ago because of a knee ailment.

Festivities Open Next Weekend

Several Olympic Flashes Entered In 48th Running of Drake Relays

By L. E. Skelley

DES MOINES, April 20—(AP)—The Drake Relays will have their 48th running next weekend and there will be a post-Olympic touch to the festivities.

Olympians who will appear include sprinter Bobby Morrow of Abilene Christian, distance runner Laszlo Tabori, who deserted his Communist - dominated Hungarian homeland for the free world, and Al Oerter, the University of Kansas discuss thrower.

Morrow, a triple gold medal winner at the Melbourne games last fall, will have two Olympic foes in the 100-yard dash. Ira Murchison of Western Michigan, fourth in the 100-meter Olympic race Morrow won, and Mike Agostini of Fresno State, who finished sixth, will toss a stern challense at the Texan.

Morrow has more than one reason for wanting to win here. A year ago at Drake he suffered his first collegiate loss in the 100 when he was beaten by Dave Sime of Duke in the relays record time of :09.4. It was a spectacular duel in the rain in which the Abilene star, off to a slow start, almost caught Sime at the finish.

Morrow's efforts won't be confined to the 100-yard dash. He will anchor the Abilene sprint relays team which, if the weather is favorable, is expected to do record-breaking stints in the 440 and 880-yard events.

Tabori, one of the few runners who have gone under four minutes in the mile, apparently can't miss wiping out the Drake record of 4:08.4 established by Wes Santee in 1955.

Others in the mile field will include Ted Wheeler, formerly of the University of Iowa and an Olympic performer; Alex Henderson, the Australian now at Arizona State Tempe and Phil Coleman of the Chicago Track Club.

Oerter, winner of the Olympic discus throw at 184 feet, 11 inches, should wreck the Drake mark of 172-11. As a sophomore he won the event at the Texas, Kansas and Drake relays, and won at Texas this year with a 180-9½ toss.

Deacon Jones of Iowa, another member of the U. S. Olympic team, has designs on the Drake two-mile mark of 9:10 which Greg Rice of Notre Dame set in 1939. Deacon has run 9:04.9.

Another Big Ten athlete, Dave Owen of Michigan, figures to do away with the Drake shot put mark of 56 feet, 3¼ inches. The Big Ten indoor champ has done 59-6.

Kansas and Georgetown are mentioned as the top teams in the distance relays. Georgetown rambled to a 7:39.6 mark for the two-mile in the national AAU indoor meet.

Also from Kansas will come Wilt Chamberlain, the All-America basketball player who is a good high jumper. The Stilt has soared 6 feet 4⅞ inches.

Over-all the relays will have a geographical sweep from the West Coast to Georgia Tech. Only Indiana and Ohio State of the Big Ten won't be represented. Colorado will be the only absentee from the Big Seven.

Johnny Kelley In Marathon Win for U.S.

By Bob Hoobing

BOSTON, April 20—(AP)—Confident Johnny Kelley conquered a powerful foreign delegation, the sun-baked hills and his own fears today to become America's first Boston A. A. marathon winner in 12 years.

Kelley was timed in 2:20:05 enroute to a stirring 1,000-yard triumph over Veikko Karvonen of Finland—regarded as the world's No. 1 marathoner.

The 26-year-old grammer school teacher from Groton, Conn., won the race on the series of three hills over which he lost to Finland's Antti Viskari a year ago.

It also was the same stretch up which Karvonen wore out Britain's favored Jim Peters for his 1954 victory.

Determined to run his own race today, Kelley refused to let the Finns dictate the tactics as a year ago when jogging Johnny was caught in 2:14:33 behind Viskari's 2:14:14.

Those amazing clockings were thrown out recently when the course was found to be 1,187 yards short. Kelley's time today is the official record for the standard 26 mile, 385 yard distance.

From the new starting line to the old one in suburban Hopkinton, the timers figured the difference was 3:43.

Karvonen was caught in 2:23:54 while Korea's Chin Woo Lim, who came from far back in fifth place over the final half of the route, was third.

Lim, winner of last month's qualifying race at Tageu, finished in 2:24:59.

Karvonen's countryman, Olavi Manninen, was fourth in 2:25:19.

Soong Chil Han of Korea was fifth in 2:28:14; 1953 winner Keizo Yamada of Japan, who beat Karvonen, was sixth in 2:33:22; Canada's Gordon Dickson was seventh in 2:37:04; Nobuyoshi Sadanaga of Japan was eighth in 2:38:13.

Rudolfo Mendez, the Puerto Rican from the New York Pioneer Club, was ninth in 2:39:45 while Alfred Confalone of Wakefield, Mass., was a surprise 10th in 2:47:51.

Kelley simply was ready for the supreme effort. He churned up the hills and sped the final six miles downhill to the cheers of thousands of well-wishers linking Commonwealth Avenue.

Not since Johnny Kelley the elder (no relation) won the event in 1945 had an American turned the trick. The elder Kelley, a two-time winner, came in 13th today in 2:52:08.

Bouts Few, Far Between

Young Fighters Find There Is Little Incentive in Game

By JIMMY BRESLIN

NEW YORK — (NEA) — "The depression," Lou Stillman had said, "that was rougher than this. But there was a reason for it. A guy would put bread in his mouth. He wouldn't buy a fight ticket. Today, this business got no excuse now."

Stillman has been talking about the depths boxing has dropped to for a long time and after hearing it once or twice, most seem prone to nod in agreement with this raspy - voiced gymnasium owner, then go about their business.

But you were reminded of him the other day when a fighter in Pittsburgh by the name of Johnny Eubanks appeared with his manager, Bunny Buntag, before the boxing commission. Eubanks, following a bout with Wilf Greaves, had appeared in court on a non-support charge and in defense told the judge he had received only $170 for the bout. The boxing commission, noting he had been paid $759, called a hearing.

At first, this seemed a simple case of outright robbery. But when Buntag began to drop a flock of canceled checks and receipts on the commission's desk, it was the kind of story Lou Stillman has been telling for some time now.

Buntag's receipts showed he had been paying Eubanks' bills for some time. Expenses for the Greaves fight were $240, including such as sparring partners, $30; bandages, gauze and tape, $1.27; trainer, $75; corner man, $15; dressing room attendant, $5.

The manager's cut of the purse should have been $173. He took less. But bills for the period when Eubanks was idle had to be paid and by the time this was taken care of, Eubanks was down to $175.

The fight? Eubanks walked into a punch in the second round and was taken out and when he found out where he was, it was time to go into court and tell a judge he was broke. He spoke poorly — because his jaw was wired together. Greaves had broken it.

Boxing is a business which at its best is a cruel, body-searing profession. But the way it is being conducted today, it is ridiculous to let a kid enter it.

In Stillman's the kids come in and train and then wait, wait, wait. New York has one weekly fight club, St. Nicholas Arena. In Chicago, there is no weekly club. Nor is there one in Detroit or Washington or just about every one-time boxing center you can name.

In the meantime, the supposed barometer of boxing, the heavyweight champion, seems to be making certain the condition does not improve itself. Floyd Patterson, and Cus D'Amato, manager, will not even have a title defense this June. As has been expected in most quarters for some time, his feud with James D. Norris, plus a total unwillingness on the part of any sponsor to put up any money, obliterated all chances of a title promotion.

Where does this leave a kid looking to make his way in the business? "It leaves him," Stillman says, "walking out of this joint — for good. I don't know how many times in the past year I've seen a kid come in here and start up. Watch him, and you'll say to yourself, "This kid learns quick. He might be good.

"Then a couple of months later, you see him just sitting around and yawning. He's had maybe one fight. Then he disappears. Somebody offered him a job pushing a truck and there you are. Kiss another fighter good-bye."

Broken Vertebra To Keep Triandos Benched 2 Weeks

BALTIMORE (AP) — A new examination shows that Gus Triandos, big Baltimore catcher and top RBI man for the Orioles, has a fractured vertebra in his lower back and will be sidelined for two weeks.

The Orioles reported today that the break, involving only a protruding knob on his spine, was discovered after more x-rays were taken.

Triandos was injured Thursday night when Washington's Herb Plews, on second base, took off for home on a single by Eddie Yost, and slid safely into home plate and Triandos on a close play. It appeared from the press box that Plews' elbow caught Triandos in the back as he slid by.

"It pains when I bend over," Gus explained. "The doctors tell me it's fractured, and I can well believe them. I don't know how long I'll be out. I'll just do what the doctors tell me."

Jack Dunn, the Orioles assistant general manager, made the prediction of two weeks of idleness.

Tiger Frosh Lose in Meet At Clinton

Drop Dual Event Saturday Despite Most First Places

Smith-Cotton Tiger Freshmen thinclads journeyed to Clinton Saturday where they ran a close dual track and field schedule with the Clinton frosh. Clinton took the event 59⅓ points to the Tigers' 49 2/3.

Smith-Cotton outshined the Clinton team in first place positions but was weak in the second and third place spots. The Tigers won seven firsts against five.

Jack Benner was high point man with four firsts and 20 points.

The Tiger chances were weakened by the absence of Bob Vedder and Gary Holderman, 440 and relays men, Holderman's pole vaulting, and Bill Sylvester the weight man in shot put and discus.

Summaries:

60-yard dash—Knight, Clinton, first; Lilly, Smith-Cotton, second; Avery, Clinton, third. Time—:07.4.

100-yard dash — Benner, S-C, first; Gill, Clinton, second; Furnell, S-C, third. Time—:11.7.

Littler Leads Golf Tourney Of Champions

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 20—(AP)—California's Gene Littler shot a 3-under par 69 and lodged a tremendous bid to capture his third straight $40,000 Tournament of Champions golf tourney this cold, windy day.

The 26-year-old professional from San Diego took command of the event with a score of 215 for three rounds, and goes into the final round tomorrow at the Desert Inn Country Club with a one stroke lead.

One shot back at even par 216 for the distance was rookie pro Don January of Lampasas, Tex., who shot an erratic 73 today.

Tied at 217 were Dick Mayer of LaJolla, Calif., with a 69, and Billy Casper Jr., Chula Vista, Calif., with a 72.

At 218 were two others still in contention, Jimmy Demaret of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., with a 73, and Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., with a 70.

Plan Christian Voice

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Council of Churches has announced plans for constructing a powerful, 100,000-watt radio station in the Philippines as a Christian "voice of the Far East."

Dr. W. Burton Martin, head of the broadcasting section of the council's division of foreign missions, said the station will beam religious programs in various languages to the Philippines and Southeast Asia.

The council, representing most American Protestant and Orthodox denominations, previously approved plans for a similar 100,000-watt station in the Palestine area, to broadcast to that region and Africa.

Wheat Growers Must Observe June 1 Deadline

Now is the time for wheat growers to make sure that they will be in compliance with 1957 wheat allotment provisions, according to C. A. Staples, chairman of the Pettis County ASC committee.

The deadline date for disposing of excess wheat to comply with acreage allotments and marketing quotas is June 1 in this county, he said.

Every farmer who has planted wheat should make sure that the acreage has been measured so that he can get a wheat marketing card. If the ASC farm report shows excess wheat, the grower can dispose of it by the June compliance date and avoid penalties.

Excess wheat can be disposed of while still green by plowing or discing it under, using it for pasture, or cutting it for hay or silage, but this disposal must be complete by June 1.

By disposing of their excess wheat acreage in time, Pettis County farmers can bring their farms into compliance with both the wheat allotment and marketing quota programs. In addition, if the acreageof wheat on the if the acreage of wheat on the mitted under an acreage reserve agreement, the acreage may be adjusted to comply with that agreement.

All growers whose wheat has been measured will be notified by the ASC office of the determined acreage, its relationship to the permitted acreage, and acceptable methods of disposing of any excess, Staples said.

Cardinals Trade Bobby Del Greco For Cubs' King

ST. LOUIS, April 20—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals today traded utility outfielder Bobby Del Greco plus an unnamed minor league southpaw pitcher to the Chicago Cubs.

The Cardinals received Jimmy King, another utility outfielder, in exchange. Cub vice president John Holland, who announced the deal, said it was a straight two-for-one player exchange with no cash involved.

Both King and Del Greco are 24. Last season King, drafted from the St. Louis farm system two years ago, batted .249 as Del Greco, who will probably center field for the Cubs, had a .214 mark for St. Louis.

The minor league pitcher in the deal, Holland said, would be assigned to Fort Worth, the Cubs' new farm team in the Texas league. Holland also said the Cubs are assigning rookie Bob Will, 25 year old native of Berwyn, Ill., to Forth Worth on 24 hour option.

Ike Authorizes Interest Rate Hike on Bonds

President Describes Savings Bonds As 'Better Than Ever'

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 20 (AP) — President Eisenhower today signed a bill authorizing an interest rate hike on government savings bonds. He called the bonds "better than ever" and said they "help assure the economic stability of our country."

The Treasury Department announced in Washington it was raising the interest on E and H bonds to 3¼ per cent a year. The former rate was 3 per cent. The higher rate of 3¼ per cent is effective on all bonds purchased on or after Feb. 1 of this year.

Eisenhower signed five other bills at his vacation headquarters at the August National Golf Club before going out on the course for another round.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower and Humphrey and his wife plan to attend Easter services tomorrow morning at Reid Memorial Presbyterian Church.

Other bills signed by the President provided for:

1. Deferal of Great Britain's interest and principal payments under certain circumstances on the balance of a $3,700,000,000 loan extended by the United States in 1945.

2. A deficiency appropriation of $320,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30.

3. Observance of the week starting April 28 as National Mental Health Week.

4. Placing an oil painting and a marble bust of the late Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson in the Supreme Court building.

In a prepared statement on the bill authorizing an increase in the savings bond interest rate, Eisenhower said the purchase program "has become an integral part of the American way of life" and has "taught countless Americans how to save." He added:

"Today, 40 million Americans own over 41 billion dollars in series E and H bonds. We want to see more people continually buying more bonds so that savings bonds provide even greater financial protection for our people in the years ahead and, at the same time, help assure the economic stability of our country.

Erect Large Grain Storage Tank at Tipton

TIPTON—H. E. Haldiman, manager of the Tipton MFA, states that the firm is erecting a 21x40-foot steel grain storage tank between its west warehouse and elevator. The new storage space will hold about 12,000 bushels of grain and altogether the MFA here has storage facilities for 25,000 bushels.

A section of the west part of the warehouse was removed to make room for the new tank. The work is in charge of Fred Adkisson of the construction company bearing that name at Clear Field, Ia. Assisting in the work is Charley Nichols of Craig.

The Very Rev. Raymond G. Hunthausen, a grandson of Gerhart Hunthausen, Tipton, was recently named president of Carroll College at Helena, Mont., succeeding the Rt. Rev. Msgr. R. V. Kavanaugh, who recently died. The new college head, 35, was born at Helena, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hunthausen, reside.

Edgar Ison, Sedalia, visited Foster Broyles Sunday and the two went to the Oakland neighborhood, northwest of Clarksburg, to visit with friends. They had attended Keener School in that community.

Paul Bixler has returned to his home in Fortuna after convalescing from two heart attacks at the home of his daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Huff, Versailles.

Mr. and Mrs. Connie Mowrey are expected home from Carona, Calif., this week. Connie has been in a hospital since January when he was processing for discharge from service in the Navy.

Mrs. Glen Dahl and daughters, Glenda, Marsha and Sue Ellen are spending three weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Needy and Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Dahl. Mr. Dahl is attending a school of instructions for the Travelers Insurance Co. in Hartford, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Rabe are building a new home in southwest Tipton.

Immunization shots for diptheria, tetanus, whooping cough, smallpox and typhoid will be given April 25 at the Tipton grade school. A dental clinic will also be held with Dr. H. P. Stonner in charge. The Tipton PTA is sponsoring these clinics.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. James Sommerhauser and Johnny, Dallas, Tex., spent several days last week with his sisters, Mrs. Rose Faherty and Mrs. Pauline Ketterlin. Sgt. Sommerhauser had not been here since he was two years old. He is an instructor at the Naval Air Station Marine Corps reserve training detachment.

Mrs. Nelson Stonner entertained the Friday Bridge Club last week. Mrs. H. C. Hume, Boonville, was a guest. A dessert course was served.

Dr. C. F. Luebbert attended the 25th national Osteopathic Child Health Conference and Clinic at Kansas City. He was accompanied by his wife.

Donald Dick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Dick was recently released from the Navy. He had been stationed at Long Beach, Calif.

Jimmie Hofstetter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hofstetter, has been placed on the Honor Roll at Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy, Rolla, where he is a junior.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON REZONING APPLICATION

WHEREAS the Zoning & Planning Commission and the City Council of Sedalia, Mo. have received application from: Emile Bethke, Executor of the Estate of Mary Sophia Bethke, owner of the following described real estate: The south half of Lot 12 in Block 4, approximately 45' X 65', known as 408 S. Thompson St. in the Martin & Cotton 3rd addition of the City of Sedalia, Pettis County, Missouri requesting that said real estate be changed and rezoned from: R-3 to M-1 and that said application be acted upon as provided in Ordinance No. 4479; therefore, in compliance with Sections No 7415 and 7416 R.S. Missouri, 1939, other applicable statutes, and said zoneing Ordinance No. 4479, said Zoning & Planning Commission will meet in the Council Chamber, City Hall Building, Sedalia, Mo. at 7:30 P. M. on Thursday night, May 2, 1957, for the purpose of a public hearing in relation to said application to change the zone and rezone said real estate, at which time and place parties in interest and citizens shall have an opportunity to be heard.

Dated at Sedalia, Missouri this 13th day of April A. D. 1957.

THE ZONING & PLANNING COMMISSION
City of Sedalia, Missouri
BY S. J. TIMBORIOUS
Chairman
CITY OF SEDALIA, MISSOURI
BY JULIAN H. BAGBY
Mayor
ATTEST with the Seal of said City:
W. C. Ream, City Clerk
(SEAL)
DC 15X 4-15—5-1.

SALE IN PARTITION

BY VIRTUE AND AUTHORITY of an order of the Circuit Court of Pettis County, Missouri made and entered at the April term, 1957, thereof, on the 8th day of April 1957, in the suit in partition, brought by William H. Bunn and Loretta C. Bunn as Plaintiffs against Mabel M. Morgan as defendant, a certified copy of which order has been delivered to me, the undersigned sheriff, by the Clerk of said Court, I the undersigned Sheriff of Pettis County, will at the West front door of the Court House in the City of Sedalia in said Pettis County, Missouri, sell at public vendue for cash in hand, to the highest bidder the following described real property situate in Pettis County, Missouri, to-wit: The South Twenty-two and one-half (22½) feet of Lots numbered Four (4) and Five (5) in Block Number Twelve (12) of Sarah E. Smith and Martha E. Martin's First Addition to the City of Sedalia, Missouri.

And I, the undersigned Sheriff, will make said sale on Friday the 3rd day of May 1957 between the hours of nine in the forenoon and five in the afternoon, and while the said Circuit Court is in session, persuant to the order aforesaid of the Circuit Court of Pettis County, Missouri.

John F. Taylor
Sheriff of Pettis County, Missouri
DC 20X 4-9, thru 5-2.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given of a hearing to be held in the Council Chambers at the City Hall in the City of Sedalia, Missouri, at 7:30 P. M. Friday, April 26, 1957 upon the application of James J. Watkins and Helen F. Watkins, for extension of use of 100 feet on Lots Three (3) and Four (4) of See's Sub-Division, said application seeking to extend the usage of Zone C-3 for a distance of 100 feet south of the existing 100 feet classified and zoned in Zone C-3.

On Cue

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—It really was "dirty pool," a billiard player explained to police.

"I put up with this character for 30 minutes," he said. "Every time I'd get ready to shoot he'd lie on the pool table. I got mad and shoved him back. He called me a dirty name.

The attempt at a game ended when the player broke the cue over the head of his antagonist.

Patrol Backs Talk on Need Of Crackdown

The superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol today endorsed the view expressed by Paul H. Blaisdell, executive secretary of the nationwide Slow Down and Live program, that the "best answer to the traffic accident problem is enforcement."

Col. Hugh H. Waggoner said Blaisdell's speech before the Central States Safety Congress at Kansas City recently "hit the nail on the head when it emphasized a crackdown on the careless driver."

Blaisdell told the group that "By any measuring stick you care to apply, the states with the lower speed limits, the strongest driver licensing administration and the most efficient enforcement have the best safety records."

Blaisdell went on to say enforcement should be advanced on three fronts: the police, the traffic court and the driver licensing authority. Of the three, he said, the licensing authority is the most important because it determines who may drive.

He said enforcement is the best cure for modern highway ills because the driver is not equipped to handle the "power and the speed potential of today's car. Technology has outstripped the human factor in highway usage."

Col. Waggoner, after reviewing the talk, said "Blaisdell's speech was practical. It had plenty of meat in it. Emphasis was put mainly on points which effectively clamp down on the traffic law violator.

"Enforcement, publicity and promotion are the heart of the Slow Down and Live program. If everyone—driver especially — does his part the state may show a big improvement over the record breaking traffic death toll of last year."

Governor Names 'Keep America Beautiful' Week

Governor James T. Blair, Jr., has issued a proclamation on "Keep Missouri Beautiful" which was unanimously adopted by members of the Missouri Federation of Women's Club at its state meeting held April 16 at Fulton. This is a year around program to cooperate with the national program of "Keep America Beautiful" and the Governor has proclaimed the week of April 21 through April 27, as "Keep Missouri Beautiful" week.

In his proclamation the Governor states that the growing volume of litter on our roadways, in our parks, picnic areas and other public places has become a major problem and offends the normal desire of our citizens for neatness and places a burden on our tax to say that it is important that this problem be brought to the attention of the people in their home areas.

New signs carrying he following warning are being erected on Missouri highways: "Disposal of rubbish, garbage, etc., on the right of way of public roads and highways is now a misdemeanor under state law."

The Highway Commission urges motorists to carry containers in their cars in which to place any rubbish they may accumulate on a trip and dispose of it in their own trash containers or other proper disposal points.

The Governor's proclamation was presented to the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs by Mrs. Lloyd L. Neef, Kansas City, chairman of the conservation department, M. F. W. C. Both Mrs. Neef and Mrs. Alba Ray, Licking, Mo., city beautiful chairman of M. F. W. C. are promoting programs to discourage litter-bugs.

New Opportunity

NEW YORK (AP)—Off-Broadway's current boom in dramas of social themes and minority problems is providing opportunity galore to talent that might wait long for its big chance on the Great White Way.

The latest addition is "Simply Heavenly" which opens in May with an all-Negro cast. Author Langston Hughes has been described by one critic as "the Moliere of Harlem," and the play is based on his prize-winning novel "Simple Takes a Wife."

Two other attractions with Negro casts scored heavily with the critics previously, "A Land Across the River" and "Take A Giant Step."

Keep Camera Tips In Mind When Photographing Baby

By KAY SHERWOOD

Good intentions, a camera in the closet, and film and flashbulbs in the drawer are not enough to answer the friendly plea written by almost every relative to proud, new parents: "Please send me a picture of the baby." Excuses that you don't have time to take pictures sound as hollow to Grandma as they do to you.

Nor is the problem solved with a photo that pictures the living room carpet and curtains more clearly than it does the tiny mite propped in the corner of the sofa.

Prompted by the upcoming National Baby Week (April 28-May 4) when our smallest citizens deserve special recognition, I'm firming up my determination to send good, clear, recent snapshots of the baby to all the family.

Profiting from mistakes in the past and heeding the tips of professional photographers, I'll bear in mind these pointers:

Shoot as close as you can. If a box camera won't focus as close to the subject as necessary, invest in a close-up lens. When taking close-ups indoors with flash, use a flashguard.

Include something in the picture to show comparative size—a tablespoon in a tiny fist or a grownup's hand. But don't overwhelm baby with an outlandish or huge stuffed toy. If you're going to try color shots, pick a toy that's pastel or subdued in color to avoid distracting the eye from the main subject.

Keep dress and background simple. This doesn't mean picturing His Nibs in a white kimono on a white blanket. But it is wise to use plain pastels, especially for color pictures, and to provide some contrast in the background.

Place a medium-toned blanket under him or hold him up near a medium-toned wall.

If Mama or Grandma will be holding the baby on her lap, make sure her dress is simple, solid-colored and provides some contrast. Or let Dad hold him—his business suit is just about right for a background that won't overpower the baby. This is important whether the picture is black and white or in color.

Naturally you'll try to capture your young subject at a favorable moment. After the baby is fed or when he first wakes up are moments that are likely to produce contented smiles.

If your equipment is ready and his mood is favorable, take several pictures so you'll have a good selection. Very young babies, I've learned, may look cross-eyed in one picture or yawn at the wrong time. I try to photograph as rapidly as possible a very young baby. His mood is so subject to change.

Young Brides Favor Pastel Color For Wedding Dress

NEW YORK —(NEA)— Fashion headliners for the young bride and the informal bride stress the shirtwaist dress, the jumper, the high-low hemline or the ankle-length hem and the slim sheath, sometimes with a train.

A great deal of fashion is packed into these designs for the younger bride who wants to look pretty on her wedding day but who also wants to avoid great formality.

Her fabrics are essentially the young ones: Cotton lace, organdy, batiste. But she may wear, if she likes, frosty white French imported rosepoint type lace over layers and layers of pale pink petticoats.

The informal bride may choose little cap sleeves or the traditional, long-pointed sleeves. She is quite likely to favor a dress with the slender, long-waisted look and a shallow, scooped neckline.

With her dress, she will wear a little cap of lace or silk. She may or may not have a veil.

The informal bride may blossom in the pastel colors that lend themselves so well to a garden wedding.

This year, she may have soft pink, green, blue, beige or mauve or any one of these done in combination with white. White lace is used as a veiling for any one of these pastels to give it a misty look.

Most younger brides favor the pastels, too, because they expect a wedding dress to see further wear in the summer following the wedding. And they feel that the pastels can see wear oftener than all white.

A change of hemline and perhaps in the sleeves turn the young wedding dress into a summer party dress.

Green Ridge OES Has Fellowship Night

Guiding Star Chapter No. 30 met in regular session and entertained the chapters of the 36th District Thursday night, April 11, at a fellowship meeting in Green Ridge.

Distinguished guests introduced were: worthy grand patron, John Owen, Warsaw; past grand matron, Viola Coffman, Sedalia, district deputy grand matron, Helen Turner, Green Ridge; grand representatives, Lela Owen, Warsaw, and Lucille White, Sedalia.

A candlelight program was presented by Guiding Star officers with Helen Turner acting as reader. In the soft glow of the candle light as each person lighted their candle from another, the chain of fellowship was extended to friends.

The hall was decorated with African violets which were later presented to the officers by the worthy matron, Mabel Chambers.

Spring flowers and candles and Christ's picture was placed in the East.

Refreshments were served in keeping with the Easter season. Favors were small Easter baskets.

Mabel Chambers presented gifts to the Worthy Matrons and Patrons of 1957.

About 70 persons attended, including guests from Warsaw, Leeton, Knob Noster, Sedalia Chapter No. 57 and Pettis Chapter No. 279, Cole Camp and Windsor.

Sedalia Jaycees Will Present Their Fourth Annual Show At Liberty Park

'Merchandise Fair' Will Feature Wide Variety of Exhibits of Products and Services for the Whole Family

'The Show of Modern Living' Will Be Open for Three Days——Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday

SECTION TWO

From One Job to Another

1957 Exhibition Follows Other Giant Sized Project

By HAZEL LANG

After rushing around to get the new Jaycees state headquarters located in Sedalia and practically freezing to death at the groundbreaking, the Jaycees found themselves knee deep in trying to put on a show that would combine all kinds of things which they are calling the Merchandise Fair.

This show will combine everything from materials to build a home to what to eat and wear. The bad part of it is, the expense this year is so great that there will be little if anything left over, but everybody seemed to be looking forward to the big annual show.

This is the fourth year for it. They seemed to be happy, too, that the food stores were to be in it, as many recalled the Food Shows held some years back an' how much they enjoyed them.

Even besides selling booth space, getting things lined up isn't easy. Take the fellow who was trying to get an organ for the show. Organ music during the evening was a must and he was worried about how to go about getting an organ. Then suddenly he found himself with two organs and he was just as confused as he was in the first place. What was he going to do with two organs? Suggestions, none of them good and really none of them intended to be, came from his co-workers. But things worked out fine and now he is all set with only one organ.

The next thing was an organist. He got the impression that the man who was getting the organist asked her for only one night and he wanted her all three nights. He worried about that for a few days and couldn't seem to find out whether she was going to play one night or three, and if she only played one night, what was he going to do the other two nights? But that come out all right, too. The organist is going to play all three nights, and so again he was all set.

The Jaycees thought the ladies would like a style show, so they went out to try to sell the women's stores on a style show. One merchant, who jumped at the chance last year to have space at the show was eager and ready to participate again. This kind of a show may not bring people flocking down to your store the next day but, according to him, it has a long-range value. After all, more than 10,000 people from the Sedalia trade area saw that show last year and what he had to offer. That, he feels, is good if you can get people to look at what you have to sell.

Well, two other stores joined in on the fashion show idea and the Jaycees thought everything was all worked out, they had a store each evening to participate in a style show. But persuading them was a little hard.

"That's the week after Easter," they argued. "Everybody has already bought all their Easter clothes." But the Jaycees pointed out that there was going to be another season right away and a few sunny days were going to convince people that summer is right here. There is the vacation angle, too, because vacations are already starting.

So, after presenting all the reasons why stores should want to go in with the Merchandise Show with fashions the Jaycees felt they were all ready to have all the summer styles shown. But just about the time they thought that was taken care of, one of the stores backed out. Now what were they going to do? For a short time there was a little more worry and then, suddenly, they got a call from another store. They had reconsidered. They not only wanted to be in the style show but wanted booth space as well. So the Jaycee trying to get the fashions lined up breathed again.

Maybe the boys should have called the show the Vacation Show, because there are so many things that tie in with vacations. One firm is going to have a boat on display long enough to fill three booths.

Then along came the car dealers. They wanted space to show off some of their new cars. The Jaycee who was continually getting into hot water trying to get the things to work out right scratched his head. Would the cars go through the Convention Hall door, and if they would what would the Park Board say? So the first thing he did was check with the Park Board. That was all right with them if Jaycees thought it could be done.

Then he measured the door. Well, it certainly was a tight squeeze, but even so it was more room than cars sometimes have on the highway. He told the car dealers it was okay, they have worked out a way they think would be easiest to get the cars through the door and the young Jaycee now has his fingers crossed. In fact, he has had his fingers crossed so much in the last few weeks that he is afraid they are going to be that way permanently by the time the Merchandise Fair is over.

And speaking of vacations, he will probably need one by Wednesday night, as well as some of the other Jaycees who have been working like mad. In fact, after putting the booths up Friday night, all the Jaycees will need one if the noise and hammering that went into getting everything ready is proof of the work.

It has been a real struggle all the way through, but the Jaycees hope for the three nights of their show that everything will run as slick and smooth as a waxed dance floor. It's been work, with problems, but the Jaycees and the firms that have joined them feel that it is a show all people in Central Missouri will enjoy and they feel that this year the crowd will far exceed last year's.

Merchandise Fair Makes Bow to Public Monday Afternoon at Convention Hall

The Merchandise Fair, the fourth annual show to be presented to the people of the Sedalia area by the Jaycees, will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons and nights, continuous from 2:30 each day, at Convention Hall, Liberty Park.

H. W. Harris, director, is chairman of the show, with Ed Rogers, first vice-president, in charge. Members of the committee are Bob Dillard, Gene Knothe and Doyle Furnnell.

Nothing gives more pleasure to the people of the Sedalia area each year than the show put on by the Jaycees because of the variety of things exhibited, things of particular interest to men, other things of interest to women and many things that interest them both.

One young woman in anticipating the show said that last year she and her husband were building a new home and it was at the Home Show, as it was called last year, that they picked out the various things they needed for their home including door knobs.

Knowing how many young couples do build their own homes or try their hands at remodeling and redecorating now days Johns Lumber Co. will have a "Do It Yourself" display, as well as an exhibit of building materials.

The women will be most interested in the style shows which will be held each evening at 7 and 9 o'clock. These shows will be about 15 or 20 minutes long and will feature summer fashions, with Connor-Waggoner showing Monday night, Ellis Ready-to-wear Tuesday night and Flower's Wednesday night. In addition, Connor-Waggoner will have a display of fashions on the second floor and Flower's on the first floor. The lounge will also be on the second floor. For the fashion show, Mrs. Rodney T. Shepherd will play the organ from Shaw's Music Co., and will also play during the show each evening. Free Pepsi-Cola will be served in the Connor-Waggoner booth.

Anderson's Heating and Air-conditioning Co. will again be on hand to show people how to keep their homes hot or cold, as they desire, according to the weather outside.

The Brickcrete Co. will have on display the new building blocks that are as strong but lighter than brick and may be made in any shape, size and almost any color, with six colors to choose from.

Elwood Thompson Plumbing Co. will show the latest in plumbing fixtures. The Furnell Lumber Co. will have something on display, too, for the home which will include fireplaces, and then there is the Anderson Window Co., which will show, no doubt, the newest thing in windows. Four lumber companies have gone together for this ehibit.

In the food line — for this year food has been added to the ehibits — will be a nice display by Kroger's, Sawyers Biscuit Co, the Rich Plan of Central Missouri — which is a plan for frozen foods—Meadow Gold Ice Cream and other products and Taysee Bread.

U. S. Gentges will have a display, as will Pioneer Stamps, and Mrs. Hall will have a booth with the World Book Encyclopedia.

For the men, and also for women interested in boats, there will be a dandy on display at the Tally-Ho booth.

Office equipment, also, will be on display by the Haller-Wise Office Equipment Co.

There will be an ehibit by the Medical Association, and People's Furniture Co. plans to show people how to get a good night's rest. Maybe this is where the automobile companies come in, too, because there will be plenty of people dreaming over the new cars which will be on display.

Jaycees started selling space to local merchants about the first of March and had many national firms wanting to buy space but the young men felt that they wanted to give the space to firms in their town. The national firms would have been more or less competitive to local merchants.

This is one of the most complete shows the Jaycees have ever had due to the fact that they have expanded to other things besides exhibits concerning homes.

There will be gifts and souvenirs and plenty of new ideas on how to do things.

Another thing the Jaycee show always offers is an occasion to see friends. Everybody has fun because they not only enjoy the exhibits but they meet their neighbors, their friends and often some they have not even seen for several years. This organization of young men performs a real civic duty to the community each year by giving the opportunity to the people of the area to see such a show free.

About Town

Mrs. Willa Laudenberger and daughter, Miss Marian Laudenberger, 409 West Seventh, are having as guests over the Easter weekend their daughters and sisters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Edler, Michael and Bobby of St. Joseph and Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Catron and John David and Mary Alice of Jefferson City.

Ed Miller Assigned To Communications

Specialist Second Class Edward K. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Miller, Windsor, is assigned to the U.S. Army Communications Zone in Orleans, France.

Specialist Miller, assigned to the Adjutant General Division of the zone's headquarters, entered the Army in 1952 and received his basic training at Ft. Jackson, S.C. He was last stationed at Ft. McClellan, Ala., and arrived in Europe in January, 1955.

Specialist Miller was graduated from Windsor High School in 1949. His wife, Bobbie, is with him in France.

The Unexpected Occurs

Jaycees' Annual Show Has 'Behind-the-Scene' Problems

Putting on a project like the Jaycees' Merchandise Show is like putting on a play; if a person could only see behind the scenes they would appreciate it more. Nobody knows what it takes to put on a project until they have actually gone into the act themselves on something and found the humorous things, which at the time don't seem so funny, that bob up in the problems they run into.

Experiences like the Jaycees had last year when they found that the three wires leading to each booth were not marked. There were two "hot" wires and a neutral wire, but they didn't know which was which. Picking up a live wire and a neutral wire would have been just too bad, so hours were spent in tracing each of the wires to the fuse box from each booth and then painting the neutral wire white.

This year the boys are running into more trouble every day, but when the show is ready they will be smiling at the crowds of people wandering around Convention Hall just as if the show had been set up without the least bit of trouble.

In the first place the date was set for them by the Chamber of Commerce. It came as a surprise to the Jaycees. They were going to have the show, of course, but they hadn't decided when. Then out came the calendar for the year by the Chamber of Commerce and they must have drawn the dates out of the box of calendar wasn't a very good time orf merchants or anybody concerned. Why? Because it is the week after Easter and that just isn't good. The Jaycees, like other organizations that put things on at Convention Hall, always count on the Sunday before the show to get things in shape—but who wants to work on Easter.

Nails, hammers, saws usually get their best workouts on the day everybody has off, yet, when it comes to Easter Sunday, that is different. So it means they skip Sunday this year, but they will have to pay for an extra day for Convention Hall. That is going to cut down the profit from the show.

Now they had to put the booths up on Friday and the firms that have booths had to decorate on Saturday to get things ready for Monday. Some firms find it's a lot easier to hire a professional booth decorator to do the job for them and it saves them a lot of work and worry. Others go out and do the job themselves. There is no little work to gettting those booths ready but many firms find it pays good dividends in advertising. It gives people suggestions on what they have in their place of business.

The Jaycees are lucky to have a member of their club owning a lumber yard. After closing time on Saturday afternoon a week ago a group of Jaycees went out to the lumber yard with a wonderful idea in mind. They would make the booths out there, prefabricated booths, and have them all ready for the show. It so happened that the owner of the lumber yard had to do all the sawing with the big power saw because the was the only one who knew how to run it. The sawdust from the big saw went high into the air like a fountain and the fellows standing around—or maybe working—suddenly found themselves covered with sawdust. There was a hurrying to get out of the way. It was raining sawdust everywhere.

At the lumber yard was a small saw, too, and since may of the Jaycees have workshops they thought they could operate the small saw without any trouble. But the small saw just didn't seem to work. After they had tried everything they could think of to get it going someone found the cord had been broken, so the repair was finally made and the little saw started sawing.

Well, the prefabricated booths were all sawed and one was set up. The idea was to make them all in sections ready to set up and then take them to Convention

Proper Procedure Makes Concrete Easy to Work With

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

Concrete is easier to work with than it appears to be. If you can build a wooden form, or mold, to give it the desired shape, you can make almost anything with concrete.

Outside door steps are a case in point. Building step forms is the trick. Pouring concrete into them and striking it off may tax your muscles but not your thinking apparatus.

Permanent steps made of concrete are not a bad investment, either. They're safe, easy to keep clean, require no painting or other care and are proof against rot and termites.

Wooden forms for the steps may be built of 1x8-inch lumber if these steps are no wider than about 36 inches. For wider ones, use 2x8 form boards to prevent binding or bulging from the stress of retaining the additional concrete.

Forms made of eight-inch boards result in steps 7½ inches high, which are just right for safe, easy climbing. If, in order to make the top step level with a door sill, one step riser must be lower than the others, the low step should always be at the bottom.

Begin by measuring from the ground to door sill or other proposed top level for steps and divide the distance by 7½ inches. This gives you the number of steps you'll need. In the event a fraction of a step is left over, bear in mind that 7½ inches is merely a maximum. Reduce it if necessary to come out even.

Sides of the form are made up of 1x8 boards standing on edge, one on top of another—one per step. Each board should be offset from the one beneath it a minimum of 10 inches. The offset fixes tread depth, which may be as much as 12 inches.

Side boards are tied together with same-size boards which form risers of the steps. or maximum comfort and safety in climbing, the riser boards may be tilted in at the bottom about one inch.

Cut riser boards equal length. Assemble each to a matching pair of side boards with six-penny nails. Next, fasten the form's components together by nailing two vertical, scrap-wood cleats to each side.

Concrete steps require no foundation, or footing, if installed on firm, stable ground. Remove sod or other vegetation from the area and pack down the soil tightly with a tamper. Then position the form and drive 2x4 stakes in place for support of the sides. Square and level the form and nail it to the stakes.

From this point to completion of the project you can rest your thinker. Muscles you'll need, unless you plan to have concrete delivered ready-mixed instead of mixing it yourself. The proper mix to use for steps consists of one part cement, two parts sand and four parts gravel. After dry-mixing the ingredients add six to seven gallons of water for each sack of cement.

Pour concrete into the form, while spading, tamping and poking it into corners and against the form to eliminate empty pockets. Tap sides of form with a hammer to force gravel away from form and produce a smooth face when concrete has set.

Level the steps roughly with a straightedge board, then wait until concrete has begun to harden to trowel it smooth.

Holds Election At Semi-Annual Council Meet

The Old Trails Council of Girl Scouts semi-annual meeting was held Monday evening, April 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the St. Paul's Lutheran Educational Building, with members from six towns attending. Mrs. Gerald Esser, Marshall, presided.

Miss Sandra Clough, executive director, gave a talk on the highlights of the Denver Conference which she and Mrs. Esser attended. Troop 5, Intermediate Girl Scout troop from Sedalia under the leadership of Mrs. Jake Stubinger and Mrs. Albert Baumgardne , was in charge of the opening flag ceremony. The girls participating were Bami Baumgardner, Kay Rotermund, Diane Shoemaker and Ann Shoemaker.

Election of officers was held and those elected for a two-year term were Mrs. P. H. Rea, Marshall, vice-president; Mrs. Walter Haggard, Fayette, secretary; Mrs. Michael Chitty, Sedalia, member of the board of directors; Mrs. Arthur Ozias, Marshall, member-at-large; Mrs. R. D. Uhr, Philip McLaughlin, and Mrs. Theodore Wells, Sedalia, were elected to the membership-nominating committee. Those re-elected were: Mrs. T. J. McNally, Sedalia, neighborhood chairman, and Mrs. A. W. Granneman, chairman of the program committee.

Election was followed by a "brainstorming session" and a social hour.

Troop 73 of Jefferson School under the leadership of Mrs. A. L. Jones and her assistant, Mrs. Mary Ditton, met on April 15. They rode bikes to Liberty Park, where they played games and had a wiener roast. An Easter egg hunt also was held.

Committee Chairmen Appointed For PTA

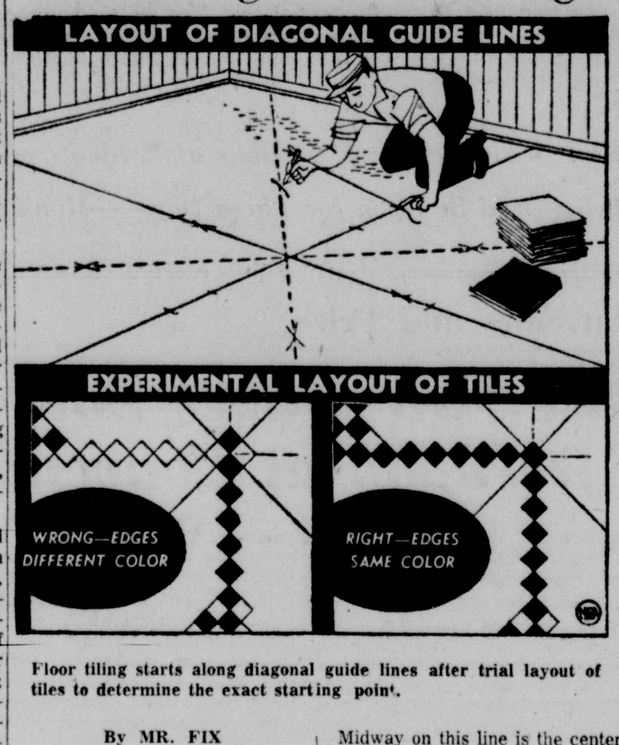
The Blackwater District 100 PTA met April 11 at the schoolhouse for a covered dish supper. The business session was called to order by the president, Mrs. Nathan Wright.

A devotional "Religion in American Life" was given by Mrs. Walter Schanz and Miss Lillie Schanz read about the Resurrection of Christ from Matthew.

Mrs. William Marshall and Mrs. L. C. Griffith were elected representative voting delegates. Committee chairmen appointed by the executive committee for next year are as follows: devotional leader, Mrs. Walter Schanz; historian, Mrs. Emmett Walker; parent and family life education, Mrs. Everett Bartel; budget and finance, Mrs. L. C. Griffith, Miss Lillie Schanz, Claude Siefkas; congress publications, Mrs. Kathryn Mitchell; hospitality, Mrs. Orley Kurtz; membership Mrs. William Marshall; PTA magazine, Dick Thomas; program, Mrs. I. D. Sidwell, Jr., Mrs. Claude Siefkas, L. C. Griffith; publicity, Mrs. Charles Younger; song leader, Mrs. William Hollis; evaluation, Mrs. Mabyl Belwood.

Mrs. Claude Siefkas introduced the county health nurse, Mrs. J. L. Hansbro. Mrs. Hansbro talked on polio and answered many questions concerning that disease. She also showed a film on polio.

Floor Tiles Can Be Laid On the Diagonal for Change



Floor tiling starts along diagonal guide lines after trial layout of tiles to determine the exact starting point.

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

Surveys have shown floor tiling to be a favorite project of do-it-yourself homeowners. Yet we'll wager that not one in 10 has ever laid floor tile in a diagonal pattern. Most choose the "square" design, in which tile rows run parallel to walls.

Although diagonal tiling is a trifle more complicated, you may find the design more interesting and "different." Here's how to lay out a room for tiling on the diagonal:

First step is finding the center point and squaring off the room. The procedure is the same for square and diagonal tiling, beginning with finding the mid-points of two opposite walls and snapping a chalk line on the floor between them.

Midway on this line is the center of the room, through which another line must be struck at right angles to the first. This squares off the room into equal segments.

To make the second line exactly at right angles, mark the first line at two points three feet to the right and left of center. Then, using any radius greater than three feet and the two new marks as centers, scribe arcs on both sides of the first line. The arcs will cross at two points and a chalk line snapped through both points will be at right angles to the first line.

If you were laying tile in a square pattern, you could begin here, but for diagonal tiling it's necessary to go a step further and strike two diagonal lines on the four new marks as centers, cross at the center point of the floor at 45-degree angles to the two lines that square off the room. (The explanation is getting involved now, but stay with me. It's easier than it looks in print.)

Mark each of the original lines at points four feet from, and on both sides of, the center point. Next, using a four-foot radius and the four new marks as cneters, scribe arcs on both sides of each line. They'll cross at points diagonal to the center and you can connect them with chalk lines that extend all the way to the walls.

If you are flooring with resilient tiles of more than one color, lay out the tiles along the original lines (not the diagonals) to see whether the design will come out right along the walls. Lay the tiles on each line with only their corners touching.

Your objective is a design which features half tiles of the same color along all four walls of the room. To achieve this you'll have to start the design in one of two ways. Depending on the size of the room, it will be necessary to either start with one tile directly over the room's center point, or with the corners of four tiles touching the center point.

If the trial layout of tiles reveals that for matching half tiles along each wall the center tile should be positioned squarely over the midpoint of the floor, it will be necessary to move the diagonal lines. Move them a half tile's width away from their original positions.

A border is generally desirable, especially if you are flooring with tiles of more than one color. Its width can be adjusted to permit using half tiles along the edges of the field. Border width may differ on adjoining walls.

Border material for some resilient tiles is supplied in 18x24-inch size that you can dut to fit. Half tiles also are available precut on the diagonal.

Easter Style Show Given At Houstonia

A style show and Easter parade, sponsored by the Houstonia Civic Council was given Thursday night. The program started with four girls from the Home Economics class modeling dresses that had been entered in the PBCA contest in Smithton. They were Elaine Lowrey, Marilyn Reid, Jeannie Messer and Pamela Shireman. This was followed by an Easter parade of the little tots and young folks of the community.

Musical numbers were then given by Marilyn Smiley, Susann Smiley, Ruth Ann Wood and Jeannie Tuck. Accordian solos were given by Ruth Ann Wood and Kathy Debord. Summer fashions from cotton bags styled by McCalls Patterns were then presented. The revue showed a new wardrobe collection provided by the National Cotton Council featuring all occasion clothing made from cotton bags. Local models appeared on the program and Mrs. Floyd Frye served as commentator.

Fashions for playtime, afternoon, house and street wear demonstrated the versatility and economy of cotton bags as a source of home sewing. Refreshments were served after the program and $49.50 cleared, in spite of the snowstorm.

There Are Several Factors To Consider in Buying Paint

How much of what kind of paint, varnish or lacquer to buy can be a real puzzler for the neophyte home handyman.

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

When it comes to buying paint, the large, "economical" size is not always economical.

Almost any home handyman has half-filled paint cans around in his workshop.

And again, almost everyone has run out of supplies in the midst of a painting job. A little thoughtful shopping will avoid these situations.

Here are some important points to remember when you go shopping for paint the next time:

THINNERS: Check instructions on the paint can label for the correct thinner. Get the advice of your dealer if no special thinner is indicated.

In general, use turpentine to thin paints and varnishes, denatured alcohol for shellac, and lacquer thinner for lacquer.

Gum turpentine is considered by some authorities as a better thinner than wood-distilled turpentine or mineral spirits. To clean brushes after a job is completed, use the same material you used as a thinner.

SAFETY NOTE: Turpentine, lacquer thinner and alcohol are generally less expensive if bought in quantity, but here's where you can afford in the long run to lose money on your purchases. IF you have a safe place away from any fire hazard (preferably away from the house, and locked up) and IF you do a lot of painting, gallon sizes are the most economical to purchase.

Otherwise, buy small quantities of these flammable products, keep them sealed tightly and away from any source of flame or excessive heat. And keep them locked up, too, if there are children in the house.

PAINT: Check label before purchasing and use a particular paint only for the purpose for which it was manufactured. Good exterior paint contains white lead and zinc oxide, has a liquid vehicle of raw linseed oil.

VARNISH: Buy the best quality and buy it in small amounts. Varnish will thicken after the can has been opened several times, and won't dry as hard as it should.

The best varnish generally contains synthetic resins. Again, check the label.

SHELLAC: Buy the smallest amount that will do the job. It doesn't keep well. Shellac is available in either white or orange. The orange is darker than you think. To lighten, add a little white shellac.

ENAMEL: Again, get the smallest amount for the task in hand. Color variety is wide and you are likely to want a different shade for an enameling job in the future.

Generally, a high percentage of varnish in the enamel indicates a better quality. Exception: semi-gloss enamel has a smaller amount of varnish. Genuine automobile enamel is the most enduring of the enamels.

LACQUER: This tends to thicken once the can is opened. Unless you own a spray gun, make sure the lacquer is specifically made for brushing.

STAIN: You will probably need less stain than your estimate of requirements.

Get a pint or less for most furniture refinishing. Check the label to make sure it won't bleed or raise the grain of the wood. (Some stains roughen the surface by causing the wood fibers to swell.)

Other stains appear to be dry after they're on, but soften when finishing materials are applied. The result is that the color of the stain comes through the finish. This is known as "bleeding."

The label will indicate whether the stain is nongrain-raising and nonbleeding — look for both these phrases to detour problems.

For the amateur, oil stains and wiping stains are the easiest to use. Spirit stains dry too quickly for anyone but an expert to handle.

TO PROTECT the supplies you have on hand, keep cans of paint and varnish tightly sealed.

Thin only the amount you are sure you will use at any one time.

Hall on Friday before the show and put them up.

It was a good idea but somebody looked at the first booth put together and figured it wouldn't go through the door at Convention Hall. Some of the others agreed with him and they decided to take the booth they had built and go see before they finished any more. Onto a truck they loaded the booth and took it out. They struggled and struggled to get it in and finally succeeded but they they gave it up as a bad job. The time it took to get that booth in the door they realized the show would be over before they ever managed to get all the booths in, so that was just another good idea that didn't work.

Another thing that is going to cut down on their proceeds this year is the fact that they had to buy lumber for the booths. They have kept the lumber from year to year but since they are a very civic minded organization every time the town had a parade and asked for floats the Jaycees entered a float. To build a float takes not only a lot of time and work but also a lot of lumber and by the time they go around to this year's Merchandise Show they didn't have any lumber left to build the booths.

Well, it is hard work and a lot of trouble to put on a good Merchandise Show for the people of the Sedalia area and the Jaycees are in hopes that everybody will appreciate their efforts, as well as the efforts of the firms who have cooperated with them to give the people of the community something extra special.

Steel Burners Help Reduce Fire Hazard

With all of its many advantages, automatic heating has deprived the average home owner of a place to burn trash. This isn't a serious problem, though, for sturdy rubbish burners are available at most local hardware and housewares stores.

These rubbish burners are made of durable galvanized steel. They have perforated sides and covers which permit rubbish to burn rapidly with no danger of wind blowing flaming particles about the yard.

For this reason, fire safety officials recommend using these steel containers instead of open bonfires in disposing of leaves during the fall months. Many destructive home fires could be averted each year, the experts point out, if home owners would avoid using open bonfires.

Another advantage of galvanized steel rubbish burners is that they can serve as trash receptacles in the back yard when they are not being used for burning rubbish. For inside storage of paper and other flammable waste covered steel ash cans or garbage cans are preferred. When kept tightly covered, these containers keep their contents fireproof.

IS YOUR HOUSE haunted by mysterious squeaks? The handy man can exorcise them with not too much difficulty.

Handyman Can Drive Out Squeaks, Groans in House

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

Have you ever wakened to the squeak of floors, the groan of stair treads and the awful certainty that things which roam the night are abroad in your house?

If so, you will recall the infinite relief experienced when you found that your ghostly prowler was merely one of the family, refrigerator-bound for a comforting snack.

Bell, book and candle are not needed to exercise those household ghosts. All the home handy man needs is know-how and a few simple tools and materials.

In an older house squeaks and groans come with age, as nails and boards begin to loosen. In newer dwellings, such noisy manifestations often stem from builders' failure to use sufficient nails in construction, and they can be symptomatic of shrinking or warping of floor boards.

If you can see the floor from underneath, as in looking upward from the basement, your problem is especially simple.

First thing to do is locate the offending floor boards.

Have someone walk slowly across the floor while you follow his progress from the basement. Mark the underside of the floor wherever a noise is heard.

Drive a wooden wedge between the joist and the floorboards at each of these points. (Joists are the parallel beams that support the floor.) Old shingles make good wedges. Generally, wedges will cure the trouble.

If wedges do not do the job, you'll need to place additional supports under the floor. Make braces by cutting lengths of 2x4's or 2x6's. The braces should be cut snug enough so that you have to drive them between the joists with a hammer. Then toenail the braces to the joists. (Toenailing is done by driving nails at an angle.

Finish securing the braces by driving nails from above as well.

This procedure may also do the trick if your floorsags at any point.

You can't tackle such a job from below if your basement ceiling is finished, or if squeaks are heard from an upper floor of the house. In such cases, or if wedges and-or braces fail to do the job, try the following method:

First of all, locate the joists. Pound the floor with your fist. You'll get a hollow sound until you reach a joist. If you can't detect the difference in sound, examine the floor boards near the wall. There will be tiny marks where the nails were driven to fasten floor boards to joists.

Drive a three-inch finishing nail at an angle through the floor boards into the joist wherever you locate a squeak. An inch or so farther along the board, drive another nail at an opposing angle.

Set the nails and cover heads with wood filler. Sand the filled spots prior to touch-up finishing, if nails are driven in an exposed area.

If you are looking for a temporary remedy, try dusting powdered graphite or powdered soap between the floor boards. This will silence the noise they make as they rub against each other. But this is only a temporary solution to the problem.

Squeaking stairs indicate loose treads. Unless you repair them, they will just become increasingly loose.

Determine first if the stairs are nailed to risers or if they are fitted into grooves in the risers.

If nailed, the remedy is to renail them or use wood screws to fasten them securely. Drive nails through the treads into the riser. Nailing at an angle increases holding power. Use finishing nails and set them so the heads are below the surface. If using screws, countersink the holes and fill over screws with wood filler.

If a grrove arrangement has been used, make wooden wedges and drive them into the joints. Since a small molding is often used to cover the joint, you'll have to remove this first. When the joint has been tightened, cut off the ends of the wedges and replace the molding.

If the underside of the stairs is open, you can further reinforce the breaks by fastening blocks at the joints with glue and screws. You may find blocks there already. If you do, tighten the screws to make the joint firm.

The remedies for squeaks and groans are simple. No home need sound like a haunted house.

New PTA Officers Recently Installed

The final meeting of the Pilot Grove PTA unit was held Monday night at the high school with Mrs. Lewis Schupp presiding. Louis Stuckey gave the devotional on cooperation.

Miss Marian Hume's class won the attendance prize. A committee composed of Mrs. Henry Jeffress, Miss Victoria Boothe, Louis Suckey and Earl Brooker were appointed to choose a gift for the school. A gift of $50 from Pleasant Green School was accepted. A. G. Olson spoke on "Youth".

Mrs. J. H. Coleman installed the following officers: President, Mrs. Virgil Walden; vice president, Mrs. Marvin Schupp; secretary, Mrs. Dale Shipman and treasurer, Mrs. Joe Twenter. Each was presented a corsage.

The retiring officers, Mrs. Lewis Schupp, Mrs. Phillip Day, Mrs. Arthur Schuster and Miss Victoria Boothe were given two year memberships in the PTA.

A program on the work of the FHA was given by 18 girls and their instructor, Mrs. Neva Harpham. Virgil Walden, vocational agricultural instructor and five FFA students spoke on the FFA program.

Following the program the FHA girls served refreshments. A bowl of red and white roses flanked by three branch candelabra with lighted tapers, centered the serving table.

Making Work Space Fit Needs Is Prime Task

By MR. FIX

With one or more power tools almost "must" items for the home workshop, the handy man is faced with the problem of fitting them into the space available for his hobby.

And to most of us, the matter of how much space to allot to each tool is pretty much of an academic question — there just isn't that much space.

But we can usually utilize the space available to best advantage if we'll engage in some careful planning.

AND IT WILL take some planning. With space at a premium in many of today's homes, the workshop is often found other than in its traditional location — the basement.

Garages, attics, breezeways — all have been requisitioned for use as workshops. And some condensed versions have even been found tucked away under stairs in an effort to eke out usefulness of the last square inch of precious space.

ONE WAY in which to "make" space for power tools is to equip them with casters so that you can roll them out of the way when not in use. Even if you're blessed with plenty of elbow room, casters are worth considering as accessories because they'll permit you to rearrange your shop layout for the particular job in hand.

MAKE CERTAIN that the casters are equipped with a braking device so that they can be locked in position while you're working. You don't want your table saw, for instance, to creep while you're ripping a board.

THE WORK BENCH is the center of all your shop activity, so figure power tool placement in relation to it.

The work bench is usually placed against one wall. Hanging your hand tools on the wall over the bench keeps them handy, yet out of the way. You can fasten a wood panel directly on the wall, hang it from the ceiling or secure it to the back of your bench. On the panel, place hooks on which to hang your tools.

USE DRAWERS and shelves of the bench for miscellaneous hardware. Discarded screw-cap jars from the kitchen make fine containers in which to keep nuts, bolts and screws sorted by size. Fasten the jar lids to the underside of a shelf or your bench, and the jars will be there when you want them.

Arrange for a light over the bench and that part of your shop will be complete.

THE TABLE SAW is, perhaps, the power tool you will use the most. Power tool manufacturers recommend that you place it near the center of the shop, with about six feet of space all around it. Place it so that you approach it from the left-hand rear as you bring work from the bench. Light for the saw should be directly over the blade so that it will not cast a shadow on the work.

IF YOU HAVE a jointer, place it next to the saw. That will eliminate steps in taking work from the saw to the jointer. Then place your sander so that material can be moved to it easily from the jointer. Allow about three feet in front of the sander and two on one side, the side toward which the disc turns.

HERE ARE recommendations for placing other power tools you may have or hope to have in the future.

Band Saw: Against the wall with 4 ft. in front and onthe right side.

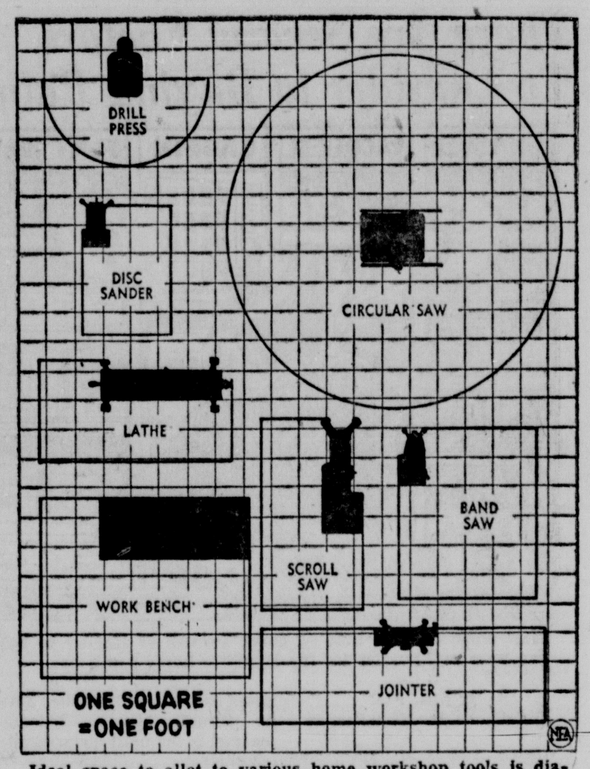
Scroll Saw: Place in corner, with two feet of working space in front and on left side.

Lathe: Either against the wall, or in a corner with back and right end flat against the walls. Allow 2 ft. in front of it for work space.

REMEMBER: With your tools mounted on brake-equipped casters, any or all of them can be shoved out of the way when not in use.

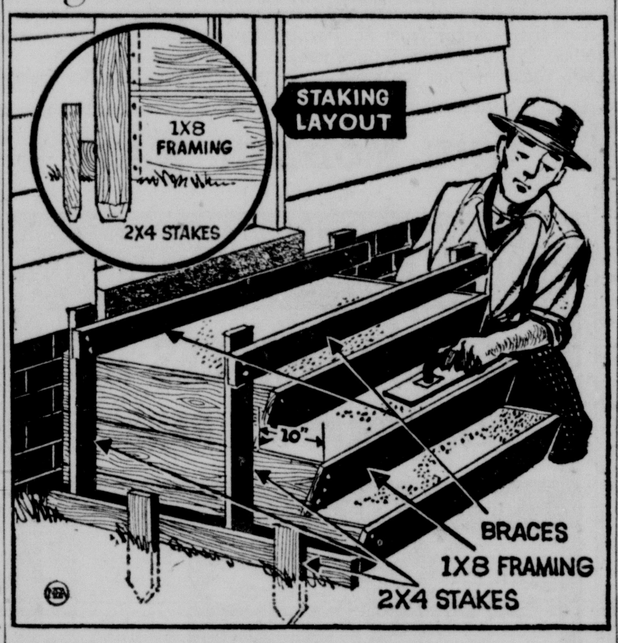
Work areas may overlap. Areas for saw and jointer will usually overlap, and the work bench area can overlap space provided for any of the other tools.

Everything he needs but space is possessed by this home handy man. Most home craftsmen must compromise on space requirements. (Delta)



Ideal space to allot to various home workshop tools is diagrammed, above. These working areas may—and usually do—overlap. (Delta)

Pegboard on Kitchen Wall



By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

How to get the most out of your kitchen: That is the question.

Big or little, kitchens have problems, because most times they are planned by people who never work in them.

The idea is to make good use of all space, even walls. A kitchen is not to live in. t should be planned for utility—a place where food preparation, freezing, storing and cooking may be done in a minimum of time.

If you can't have everything at your arm's reach, locate it nearby. Cabinets or shelves above the refrigerator may hold ice box containers, seldom-used kitchen ware; casserole dishes and pots may go above the stove or oven cabinet; canned foods and breadstuffs may be put in an out-of-the-way spot, perhaps above the washing machine.

One wall or corner may get peg board treatment, to hold useful items that never seem to be available readily when needed. These include sharp knives for carving, dippers, spatulas (now in attractive sets), pipkins, molds, chicken shears, table tiles, trays.

It's a good place to put your electric clock, too.

Now is the time to get at those screens, before the advance echelons of summer's hoard of insects move in on the family.

Time Is Near for Insect Air Force to Make Invasion

By MR .FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

The world's most numerous air force will soon deploy its legions in your neighborhood and it's none too soon to erect barricades against its coming.

In short: Bug season arrives with warm weather and you'd better look to your screens.

Are they clean? Do they need painting? Are they in need of repair?

If the dust that's settled during storage is all that you have to contend with, you're fortunate. Soapy water solution, scrubbed on with a stiff-bristled brush and followed with a thorough rinsing from the garden hose, takes care of the situation.

If it's the second or a subsequent season for your screens, painting may be in order, depending on type of mesh.

Bronze or copper screening should never be painted. But water runoff from bronze screening can stain house paint, and you might consider use of a good quality spar varnish, applied after screens have been cleaned.

Aluminum screening needs no refinishing, nor does the plastic screen now in the market.

Galvanized wire screening requires painting at start of second-season use, and it should receive a new paint job about every other season thereafter.

Use only well-thinned screen enamel. Apply with one of the special applicators available, or make one by tacking a piece of carpeting to a wood block.

Paint both sides of the screening, and keep holes in the mesh open as you work across the screen by clearing any clogged areas with a toothpick or thin wire nail.

Check frames for tgiethnbsse-

Check frames for tightness before painting with regular house paint or varnish. If frames are beginning to sag or wobble, reinforce corners with braces made especially for screens, or screw angle irons into frames at each INNER corner. Mitered joints can often be tightened by driving in corrugated fasteners.

To patch breaks or holes in the mesh is no chore at all if you buy ready-made patches available at your hardware store. These small bits of screening have wires bent into the shape of tiny hooks at their edges and patches come in various sizes. Be sure that patch you apply overlaps hole sufficiently to thwart wiggles of the most determined insect.

If you're making your own patches from a length of screening, ravel a few wires at each edge and bend these wires at right angles to the patch. Position patch, and crimp wire strands in pacle on side of screen opposite to the patch.

If rescreening a frame is necessary, you'll find that obtaining sufficient tension to make the screen taut will be your greatest problem.

There are severa' methods.

Listed below are two methods you might explore:

(1) Place frame on two sawhorses, one under each end of screen frame. Tack or staple screening to one end of frame. Place two weights of equal value, one on each side of frame at midpoints (see sketch).

These weights should be heavy enough to bend the frame only slightly. Fasten screening to frame at opposite end from that which was first tacked, and remove weights. Screen will snap taut and you can then fasten side of screening in place.

(2) Set the frame on two 2x4's, one under each side, with two one-inch boards across the side members to support the ends of the sash. Tack screening to one end of sash, then clamp sides to 2x4's to get the required arc across which screening will run. Pull screening reasonably tight and tack at unfastened end. Remove clamps and frame from 2x4's, and finish the job.

Use fasteners similar to metal that the screening is made of to do your tacking or an undesirable chemical reaction may take place over a period of time. For example: Copper tacks and aluminum screening set up conditions that can cause corrosion which will eat away screening at point of fastening.

For bronze or copper mesh, use copper tacks, brass brads or staples.

Aluminum screening calls for aluminum alloy tacks, stainless steel tacking, galvanized steel or blued steel tacking. Never use copper tacks for such an installation.

Home Handyman Should Act As Own Safety Engineer

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

The trail of blood spots spattered up the basement stairs, through the kitchen and into the hall does not lead to a corpse in the cedar chest.

It does lead to a harried home handyman, busy at a do-it-yourself job of first aid in front of the bathroom medicine chest.

ACCIDENTS are reflected in one facet of the home handyman picture which is not as pleasant to contemplate as, let's say, one that mirrors a new piece of furniture or a repair job well done.

Many accidents occur — they just don't "happen." They occur in the sense that they're scheduled by the home handyman through his own carelessness.

CARELESSNESS compounded with ignorance of proper procedures sets up a dangerous atmosphere in which to work.

Keep this in mind: Every time you pick up a tool you're pitting tempered steel against flesh and bone. Listed here are some cardinal points of safety to keep in mind when working around the home:

KNOW YOUR TOOLS. Know what each tool is designed to do. Use each one properly. In case of a powered tool, read the manufacturer's instructions carefully and abide by them. Keep instruction booklets for your equipment in one place in your basement.

Don't abuse tools. To cite an absurd example, don't use a screw driver for a job of chiseling (this has been done with attendant damage to the chiseler's person).

SHARP TOOLS are safer tools. Saws which are sharp snag and bind less. Drills which are sharp have less tendency to snap or choke up. There's less danger of carving your person rather than the wood if your knives are keen-bladed.

Worn tools are dangerous tools. Wrenches with worn jaws, automatic drills and screw drivers which slip or fail to ratchet properly should be repaired, or retired from use.

If hammer heads are loose, tighten them. Split-handled screw drivers should be replaced. Leaky oil cans are a potential fire hazard.

HAVE A PLACE for every tool. A backboard for your work-bench is a much better device for storing tools than a catch-as-catch-can set of drawers in an old chest or dresser.

Hang the tools in such a manner that, in reaching for one tool, you won't snag your hand or arm on some other bit of equipment.

If your saws are hung along the wall, make certain that the teeth are covered at all times with saw guards.

SAFETY DEVICES are meant to be used. It takes seconds to don safety goggles or to replace a saw guard.

No hardware store in the world stocks replacement eyes or hands.

KEEP YOUR SHOP shipshape. Keep the floor clear of obstructions. Keep the workbench free of litter.

If you're creating a mess of wood shavings or bits of metal, clean up frequently as you work.

There's only one significant fact implied in the statement that, "my dad (or uncle, or cousin) had a sloppy workshop. Nothing ever happened to him."

That fact is: Dad (or uncle, or cousin) was lucky.

You could be on the short end of the percentages.

Safety is more than a word—it's a way of life for the home handyman if he's to pursue his avocation in pleasure and without pain.

Window Room Cooler Can Be Permanent

Room air-conditioners are becoming very popular appliances, with more and more families taking advantage of the cool summer sleeping they offer. Although some of the models are built into the wall, most are the window-type. Because this tyle of room air-conditioner is not installed as a permanent fixture, users either must remove them in cold weather or suffer drafts and loss of heat around the unit in wintertime.

With only a couple of hours' work, a home craftsman can turn the unit into a year-around installation without the disadvantages mentioned, providing the cooler is located in a double-hung window.

The only materials necessary include putty, caulking and a piece of tempered hardboard or exterior plywood. Remove the pane of glass in the lower panel of the storm window, since the air-conditioner extends out several inches. Cut the plywood or hardboard to fit the space from which the glass pane was removed. With a jig or keyhole saw, cut a hole in the center of the wood panel to fit the contour of the air-conditioner at the place where the unit would pass through the storm window.

Fit the wood panel into the storm window as you would a pane of glass and putty it into place. Mount the storm window in place, with the air-conditioner projecting through it. Fill any air spaces around the unit with caulking to prevent air from passing through. Caulking is used in this application rather than putty because it remains more flexible and will not be dislodged by vibrations of the air-conditioner or temperature changes.

The Radiance Of Easter

One of the miracles of life is memory. During man's turbulent career on earth memory can play him tricks, distress him with recollections of past sorrow and sinful living, or uplift and exhilarate him with reflections of joyous experience along life's winding pathways.

Distressed, indeed, is the person whose dark memories of unsocial and Godless behavior overshadow the brilliance of sharing good will and clean living with his fellow man.

Such contrasts are found often in nature's manifestations. Motoring over mountain ranges through ugly, dangerous weather is soon forgotten when the sun breaks through stormy clouds to reveal in resplendence the panorama of Shenandoah's peaceful hills and valleys. It is a revelation of light's supremacy over darkness which must impress even the most irreverent cynic.

Such a transition is with us this Easter Day symbolic of the victory of Christ over death, light over darkness, joy in the promise of eternal life over the gloom and apprehension of a crucifixion.

Easter's dawn brings a new day of hope instead of despair. Men, women and children are in meditation over the ways of God in manifesting His love for them. The darkness of a tomb has given way before the light of God's Truth. That Truth was personified by Christ the man; deified in Christ the Saviour.

Today and every day, the light of His countenance shines upon all mankind. Like the dawn of each new day His light illuminates the road of righteousness over the mountains of selfishness, hypocrisy and meanness. The miracle of the memory of this promise to mankind is a guide through the fertile valleys of Christian fortitude and good deeds to the goal of universal peace and brotherhood.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Summerfield Has Record as Postmaster

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Postmaster General Summerfield called me a liar the other day when I reported that he had pulled wires to shut down the congressional probe of Jimmy Hoffa and Teamster racketeering in the Detroit area. Now that he's being kicked around by Congress and the public generally, it might be a good time to come back at him.

Forgetting Mr. Summerfield's political errors, however, and sticking to his record as postmaster general, it's hard to come back at him. For, despite his hassle with Congress, the facts as I review them are that Summerfield has done a pretty good job. I have watched quite a few postmasters and I don't know anyone who has done better.

Let's look at the record.

Though the U.S.A. has expanded, Summerfield has run his huge operation with fewer employees. There were 523,757 in 1952 when he took over. There were 508,587 in 1956.

In that same period, mail had jumped from 49.9 billion pieces in 1952 to 56.4 billion pieces in 1956. There were 300,000 new home owners in 1956 and 250,000 new business concerns. Yet Summerfield ran the post office with less personnel.

The record also shows that Summerfield has been careful with the taxpayers' money. He has gone back to Congress only once before for more money. This was in fiscal year 1956 when he needed and got an extra $166 million.

In 1954, on the other hand, he turned back $105 million to the Treasury, and in 1955 he turned back almost $50 million.

His trouble this year is that he made a mistake in estimating the increased volume of mail. He figured it would be 2.8 per cent more than the last fiscal year, when actually it turned out to be 4 per cent more. This error of 1.2 per cent doesn't seem like much, but when you're operating 38,000 post offices it runs into both money and mail—59 billion pieces this year.

Magazine Lobby

The curly-haired postmaster general, who once was the world's biggest Chevrolet dealer, has made a lot of people sore at him by revamping outmoded postal equipment and operations.

He also hasn't hesitated to tackle the big magazine mailers, whose second-class privileges run him into the red deeper than any other item.

It happens that these big magazine owners are the best supporters the Republican party has. Every major magazine in the U.S.A. was for Ike in 1952 and 1956, and some of the publishers were also heavy campaign contributors.

Henry Luce and his beautiful wife contributed $30,875 to Ike last November, while their publication, Life magazine, cost the post office department and the taxpayer $9,310,000—the difference between the actual revenue received by the post office from Life magazine and what it cost the post office to deliver it. Time and Fortune, also Luce publications, caused the post office another sizable loss.

Roland Harriman and Vincent Astor, chief owners of Newsweek, contributed $34,350 and $7,500 respectively to Ike last year. Newsweek, in turn, cost the post office a substantial loss in second-class-mailing expense, so that the taxpayer indirectly helped subsidize the magazine even though he may have voted for Stevenson.

John and Mike Cowles, publishers of Look magazine, are also strong Ike supporters. According to the latest figures available, their magazine costs the post office and the taxpayers $3,482,000 annually to deliver.

McCall Corporation now has a new president, none other than ex-Gov. Arthur Langlie of Washington. He too was a strong Ike supporter. And his McCall's magazine costs the post office a formidable annual loss of $1,507,000.

However, it should be said for Summerfield that, though he's a politician and though he's raised plenty of cash for the GOP—some of it by means that brought some convictions of Michigan auto dealers—he has bucked the big magazine owners.

Some people think he hasn't bucked them strongly enough. But right now Reader's Digest is circulating among congressmen advance copies of its May issue blasting Summerfield's operation. De Witt Wallace, publisher of Reader's Digest, who is fighting Summerfield, is a strong Republican and, with Mrs. Wallace, contributed $7,250 to the party coffers. His magazine cost the post office the huge sum of $4,172,000 in second-class mailing losses.

The inescapable fact is that the 10 top magazines of the nation account for three-fourths of the second-class mail. And Summerfield knows he has to beat the magazine lobby if he's going to come anywhere near balancing the postal budget.

In my opinion, the postmaster general has made some bad political boners in his day, but running the post office is not one of them.

Note—The Luce magazine empire of Time, Life, and Fortune has just announced figures showing that in 1956, 25 cents of every advertising dollar spent in magazines went to a Luce publication. Net income for the year was $13,850,000 or $7.10 a share. Earned surplus increased $20.3 million to $62.4 million. Time, also part owner of Houston Oil, is constructing a paper mill in Louisiana and a 47-story building in Rockefeller center, New York City. Time also has acquired five VHF television stations, the maximum permissible, plus some radio stations. It constitutes perhaps the largest privately owned force for influencing public opinion, part of it built up through postal benefits.

Air Traffic Control

The Civil Aeronautics Board recently reported that there were 452 near collisions in military and civil plane operations in this country during the last four months of 1956. About one half of this number were in point to point transit, the rest were training or local flights. Half of these near collisions occurred in controlled air space while the others were involved in criss-crossing their courses. Fortunately the near collisions did not collide.

The report indicates that there is immediate need for better traffic control in the air.

No plane should be allowed to fly without its air space being known to a responsible control authority. The heavens are vast, but with the tremendous increase in air travel new and more positive methods of traffic control by radar and other electronic devices seem indicated. The use of jets for civilian use as well as for military purposes make air space control all the more imperative.

Guest Editorial—

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: Lo, the Humble Circular File. Wastebaskets have apparently been discovered to be a source of waste in Washington. That is the only construction we can place upon a news item—from a House appropriations subcommittee—informing us that the cost of "executive wastebaskets" for government offices has been cut from $27 to $10 apiece.

A lot of questions still remain unanswered. But this 63 per cent price reduction at least indicates that someone somewhere is in earnest about cutting the cost of government where it is safe to do so. To him ,congratulations!

But, as we say, there are questions still to be cleared up:

Why does a wholesale buyer like the government still have to pay $10 for even an "executive' wastebasket?

Why does the State Department, which brought this whole matter to light, need 430 new baskets this year? That's an amazing number of new executives—or of wastebasket-mutilating old executives—for one year's crop.

And finally, with all these "circular files" available, why aren't more long memos, quadruplicate copies, departmental regulations, and redtape reports filed directly in them?

Helicopter For Ike

In about two months President Eisenhower will use a four passenger Bell Ranger helicopter for travel. Two machines have been purchased, one for the President and one for the Secret Service. The main reason for choosing a helicopter is that it can easily be parked on the White House lawn and taxi the president to the Military Air Transport Service Airport, thus avoiding four miles of Washington traffic.

A helicopter is a far-flung change from General Eisenhower's old khaki colored 1942 model Cadillac which was his command car during World War II. Some of his friends recently purchased it for him at a sale of army vehicles in Germany. The car which has clocked 67,000 miles will be sent to the Eisenhower museum at Abilene, Kansas.

Thought for Today—

And he said unto them, This is my blood of the new testament which is shed for many.—Mark 14:24.

In His death He is a sacrifice, satisfying for our sins; in the resurrection, a conqueror; in the intercession, a high priest. —Luther.

The Lowly Prince

There in a borrowed manger born.
A very humble life lived He,
Upon the cross, a crown of thorns,
This lowly prince of Galilee;
Buried then in a borrowed tomb
Which a kindly man had loaned,
Around it were the flowers in bloom,
But nothing, nothing had He owned;
His only world possession,
Yet, where could anybody find
A life with a greater lesson?
And when he had toiled as just a lad
It was in but a humble way,
Making the wooden plows they had,
And use there still today;
Left He nothing made of stone,
Nothing that he carved in wood,
No orator, and yet His tone
And His voice were understood;
No education — yet He spoke
To make the wise men take heed,
This maker of plows and oxen yoke,
Had a manner born to lead;
Despite that under Caesar's rule,
As a Jew, was He despised.
Cared He not for their ridicule
Nor the scorn in Caesar's eyes;
He left behind no printed word
Still the stories that He told
Were written by the men who heard
And even now, they still unfold;
No traveler — for the miles He went
Were only distances He walked;
Wherever He might be He spent
Time with those He met, and talked;
No worldly goods did He possess
Yet, those who loved Him shared their bread,
No man on earth then He had less
Yet, many homes gave Him a bed,
Upon the cross at thirty-three,
When much life held for Him, He felt,
He died, God said that it must be,
And there in tears His faithful knelt;
But He arose and each close friend
There in the flesh and blood once more
Saw Him—and then watched Him ascend
With faith still stronger than before;
And so by mouth the story spread
For those who saw Him oft repeated
The fact the He they thought as dead
Had now His work on earth completed.
And so they told the story o'er
And on parchment did they write,
Far places — by water from shore to shore,
They carried the message of His light.

The Mature Parent

One Way To Teach Child To Tolerate Our Criticism

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence

Jimmy's mother called him upstairs.

When he came, she showed him streaks of tar on his bedspread. "Why did you put those skates on your bed?" she demanded. "How many times do you have to be told to leave them downstairs? Just how do you expect me to get that tar out of your bedspread?"

Jimmy said complainingly, "I didn't get it on the bedspread. I left my skates on the floor."

His mother felt a panicky sinking of the heart. Why couldn't Jimmy once take responsibility for making a mistake? What would be the end of this child if he didn't learn to acknowledge a fault — if he continued to evade all criticism by insisting he didn't deserve it?

The answer to these questions lies in her.

Jimmy can admit no mistake out of his conviction that she wants a perfect child. His evasion of any criticism is his effort to satisfy her wish — and assure her she's got one.

If she wants him to learn to tolerate criticism, there's only one way to teach him. She must free him of his conviction that she wants a perfect child by showing him kindness when he behaves like an imperfect one.

To his attempt to present himself as a boy who could never dream of putting his skates on his bed, she must become able to say, "Ah, well — you'll be more careful hereafter. Now let's see if we can correct this mistake. I'll take the spread off the bed and you go downstairs and get out the cleaning fluid . . ."

Unfortunately, parents of children who evade criticism find it almost impossible to treat their mistakes kindly.

This is because they are so impatient with their own.

When their child misbehaves, they think, "Oh, this is awful! I should have been able to make this child virtuous." As they realize their obvious failure to produce the perfect child, they get madder and madder at him for reflecting discredit on them. Gradually, they can feel only resentment toward the child whose imperfect conduct exposes them to dreaded criticism.

If we are struggling with a child who resents criticism, the questions to ask ourselves are: Why do I, too, fear criticism? Who gave me standards of accomplishment so relentless that I live in perpetual fear of failing them? Was it a person who loved me—or just someone who used me to reflect credit on him?

The Disenchanted

SAN MANUEL, Ariz. (AP) — The weekly San Manuel Miner recently printed on its front page—in boldface type and "with great pleasure"—this letter from Texas:

"I want to subscribe to the Miner. I used to live in your fair city, and loved it. I miss San Manuel and Arizona very much. Texans don't have much to brag about."

The paper did not print the subscriber's name "for fear word of this may find its way to Texas and reprisals may be visited on this fine San Manuel booster."

Odds and Ends
By News Staff

A little girl from Kansas City was visiting her grandmother at Hughesville and thought it was great fun to gather the eggs each day. One day she went out and found a setting hen, which didn't mean a thing to her except the hen was on top of the eggs she wanted to gather. So under the hen she reached for the eggs and the old hen jumped on the child and scratched her.

Into the house the youngster went with her scratches to show her grandmother.

"Grandmother," she said, "that old hen sure does have long fingernails doesn't she?"—H. L.

Taken to Sunday School by his daddy, a little boy was asked by his mother when he came home, what he had learned at Sunday School that day.

"Oh," said the youngster, "all about Baby Jesus."

The next Sunday when he came home from Sunday School she asked him the same question to which he replied, "All about Baby Jesus."

The third Sunday she asked the question again and her small son looked up at her a little disgusted. "Ah, all about Baby Jesus." And then he added, "Mother, don't he ever grow up?"—H. L.

Looking Backward . . .

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

"Hobo Day," custom observed many years at the high school, was to be done away with and instead the seniors were to have what they term a "Day of Frolic." The panhandling through begging of coins was to be dispensed with. Features of the observance were to include a parade, picnic lunch, theatre party and dance in the evening at Convention Hall.

1932

Barrett Emmert, former, Sedalian, who had been a representative of the Standard Oil Co. at Batavia, Java, was given a transfer to Hongkong, China. He and Mrs. Barrett, who had been visiting relatives here, were to make their home there.

1932

Mrs. Grace Young, librarian at the Sedalia Public Library, and Miss Nettie Lamm left for Columbia to join a party under direction of Dr. Henry O. Severance, librarian of the University of Missouri library, to go to New Orleans, La., for a meeting of the National Library Association April 25-30.

FORTY YEARS AGO

M. V. Carroll, secretary of the Missouri State Motor and Good Roads Association, gave the principal address at a good roads meeting at King City.

1917

Harold Swain, general counselor of the Title Guarantee and Trust Co., New York, was visiting Mr. and Mrs. George K. Mackey, 906 West Seventh.

1917

Twenty-six young men enlisting here at the U.S. Army recruiting station the past week, left for Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, to take training and receive assignment.

Bigness Is Relative

National Economy Growing Faster Than the Budget

By JOSEPH A. DEAR
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The Ministry of Small must overcome the subconscious will of the nation in order to cut the budget.

The very cars we drive indicate a collective compulsion to bigness. Just think of their size and horsepower. The huge federal budget is an expression of the same subconscious national preference.

It's easier to defend the size of the budget than that of our autos. The latest passenger model from Detroit has the power plant of a truck and the speed of a racer. There's really nothing to be said in favor of the uneconomical potential of the modern auto. But apparently that's what we want, and maybe the big budget is what we want too.

The qualifier maybe is necessary, because to judge by the talk in Congress the contrary is true. This is not an argument against economy. It is an argument against unreasoning attack on President Eisenhower's big budget merely because it is big. The numerology of budgeteering isn't important. Substance is.

This is a great nation. One reason is that we spend big. Back in World War II the late FDR, or the advice of several long-hairs, took a multi-billion flier that culminated in the atom bomb. Today we are spending more to develop guided missiles than we spent on the A-bomb.

That's one reason Ike's budget is big. The simple fact is that defense costs more now. To illustrate: four modern aircraft engines today cost more than one of the 10,000 ton cargo ships built in World War II.

The threat of imperialist aggression by Russia does impose a burden on us. The burden is shared by other free nations. But we should not rush to the wailing wall because we carry most of the load. We should rejoice. It is a privilege, giving meaning to life, to be the defenders of civilization. And thus is a privilege we all share.

The wonder of it is that Ike's budget isn't larger. Appealing arguments for increasing the funds of some federal agencies can be made. For example, this is the age of air travel. Though the safety record of the air lines is excellent, there are nasty accidents. Yet the Civil Aeronautics Board employed many more accident investigators ten years ago than it does today.

It is true, of course, that you may not benefit directly from some of your tax dollars. But in any event you will be an indirect beneficiary. Consider the National Parks as an example. Some of your tax money goes towards their upkeep, and yet you may not have a chance to visit them. But the National Park System contributes to the beauty of your country and is another reason for taking pride in it.

The current preoccupation with the size of the budget has tended to obscure one very significant fact. The national economy is growing faster than the budget. Ike's budget this year will consume the smallest portion of the national income of any budget since the end of World War II.

And, as Ike pointed out at his weekly press conference, the government's budget is increasing only half as much as the budgets of many large corporations. It is from these same corporations, incidentally, that this administration has recruited its brainpower.

Ike has no reason to apologize on account of his budget. And very probably he need not fear any political repercussions as a consequence of its size. The price of American citizenship would be cheap at twice the price.

Dr. Jordan Says

Most Nervous People Must Learn to Live With Selves

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Some of the questions I receive are extremely vague and difficult to discuss.

One of these comes from a correspondent who asks for a discussion of "better emotional health."

She says that ever since childhood she has cried easily and that a song, a sad story or anything of that sort, touches her too deeply.

Others write that they are "nervous and highstrung" and complain of a great many different kinds of pains, aches or other symptoms.

Medical textbooks do not contain chapters on "better emotional health" or "being nervous and highstrung," and there are few articles in the medical journals dealing with subjects like these. It is probable that when people use such terms and complain of such varying symptoms they are not suffering from any single disease and that the origin of their difficulties stems from a variety of different factors.

Most such people, however, usually become excited and upset easily whenever they are angered, frightened or subjected to any other strong emotion.

Quite likely there are many different reasons for an exaggerated reaction to emotions. Sometimes there may be a family tendency to be easily disturbed.

While doctors have difficulty in pinning such conditions down to any definite thing, many believe that it is closely tied up with a part of the nervous system known as the "sympathetic nervous system," which is not directly under control of the will or the brain.

Some of those who complain of being highstrung or nervous, complain also of excessive perspiration—likewise worse under emotional stress—easy blushing, fainting and other involuntary reactions.

If the cause of these conditions is vague, it is naturally difficult to know what to do about them.

Some people with such symptoms improve by taking regular exercise and getting more regular sleep. Others—perhaps most—are better when they have had a vacation and are rested than when they have been under the strain of work or excessive household duties. A few learn how to relax better, and improve when they do.

There are many unfortunates suffering emotional ills, however, who merely make the rounds from doctor to doctor seeking some cause which can be treated by drugs or surgery and never find a solution to their problems.

Perhaps some day a solution or solutions may be offered. But at present those who complain of "nervousness" or excessive response to emotion can hardly ever be helped much by anything which can be done for them in a medical or surgical way except sometimes by psychiatry.

Most must learn how to live with themselves and to ignore, as far as possible, the unpleasant symptoms for which a cause and successful treatment cannot be found.

Versailles FFA Boys Win in District Meet

Three teams from Versailles FFA chapter won a blue ribbon and were classed in group at the district contest held recently at Warrensburg. The teams were: the meats team, Dwain Campbell, James Schultz and Ronald Marriott with Donald Burke alternate; dairy production team, Dean Allee, Ronald Baumgartner and Daryl Lehman with Loren Houseworth alternate; soils team, Owen Fuhrbrodt, Mel McLennan and Daryl Lehman. Daryl was the second high individual in soil judging. The teams are eligible to compete for state honors.

The treasurer's book with Daryl Lehman as treasurer, received a blue ribbon and classified I. The book will be taken to the state contest.

Larry Bohling's secretary book received a red ribbon and the animal husbandry team received a III rating. It is composed of Donald Burke, David Ward and Oran Fox with Bill Eckert alternate.

The boys were accompanied to Warrensburg by their instructor, Andy White.

He Is Risen!

Toward dawn of the first day of the week the Marys came to the sepulchre. It was empty. But an Angel of the Lord, who had descended from heaven, greeted them, saying, "He is not here: for he is risen, as he said." Thus came to pass the eternal miracle of Easter.

Opera Singer Falls Victim To That Easter Hat Madness

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The Easter hat madness has an unusual victim this year—Blanche Thebom, the only girl in grand opera who can stand on her own hair without bending her knees.

"I feel like I had dived into a lily pond, and had come up with a lily on my head," said the Metropolitan Opera star as she put on the first hat she had bought in 14 years.

The beautiful mezzo - soprano gave up hats about the time she started letting her hair grow long. Now it is over six feet in length and the singer, who is about 5 feet 7 inches tall, actually can let it down and step on it.

Miss Thebom, who usually gets along by sticking a flower or a jeweled ornament in her hair, went on a bonnet buying spree this season because she is going to England soon. It wouldn't do to bump unexpectedly into Queen Elizabeth with nothing but a vintage orchid in her tresses.

Blanche isn't a girl who goes in for half-way measures. She descended on the hat shop operated by Mr. John, the noted chapeau designer, with the enthusiasm of a pirate raider.

Her enthusiasm was matched by that of Mr. John, weary at the moment of decorating girls who affect short bobs or even crew cuts.

"For a long-haired woman, the hat simply must be in proportion. Hat design, after all, is basically architecture, which is basically proportion."

Mr. John, whom Napoleon is said to resemble, tosses off bon mots like this all day long.

He came in with half a dozen colorful wide-brimmed hats with such romantic titles as "Meeting in Mayfair," "Brunch with a Beefeater" and "tea with a total stranger."

One hat which was two feet wide and named "Windsor afternoon' caught Blanche's eye.

"This is a black palace portrait hat," murmured Mr. John, "made of layers of summer black taffeta with a black petticoat brim, caught with a single summer rose, also black."

Intoxicated either by Mr. John's haunting creations or his haunted descriptions, Miss Thebom wound up with about a dozen big-brimmed hats.

"If you're going to wear a hat," said Blanche stoutly, "you might as well wear a mad one, so that a man can look at it condescendingly."

As she left Miss Thebom was heard to mutter:

"I think I'll have a happy Easter—if I just don't have to go through too many revolving doors."

Local Squadron Of CAP Meets At the Airport

The Sedalia Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol, held its regular meeting at the Municipal Airport Thursday.

Sgt. Burl M. and Lola Teague were welcomed as new senior members, transferring from the Colorado Squadron. Sgt. Teague is stationed at Whiteman Air Force Base. There were 13 senior members and 11 cadets present, with Barbara Lewis and Craig White applying for cadet membership.

Lt. Rhozella Kehl introduced Capt. Jack Kehl, who gave the first lesson in observer training on search and rescue.

Plans are continuing for the Civil Air Patrol and Beta Sigma Phi benefit pancake day to be held at Sedalia Municipal Airport on Saturday, May 11, from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. The merchants are cooperating by donating merchandise. Plans for the shuttle buses are being completed.

Tickets for the pancake day will be available this weekend from any Civil Air Patrol or Beta Sigma Phi member. The Beta Sigma Phi will use their proceeds to furnish a room in the new wing of Bothwell Hospital and the Civil Air Patrol plans to erect a building.

The following cadets were promoted in rank: 1-Sgt. Dion Land to 2nd Lt.; A-1c Ralph Vickers to S-Sgt.; A-2c Larry Decker to A1-c; A3-c Doyle Bryce to A-1c; A-B Bill Holloway to A-3c; and A-2c Leslie Ramey to A-1c.

Word has been received that the Civil Air Patrol Cadet Aviation Education Training Bill, previously referred to as the proposed flight training program bill, has been introduced into both houses of Congress. The purpose of the bill is "to encourage aviation education and training for cadet members of the Civil Air Patrol." According to Lt. Col. Earl L. Franzen, assistant for plans at Civil Air Patrol National Headquarters, the bills have been referred to the Armed Services Committees in each house for further action.

The volunteer air crews of the Civil Air Patrol, operating small single-engine light planes, flew the equivalent of 49 times around the world on air search and rescue and mercy missions in the United States, Alaska and Hawaii, directed by the United States Air Force's Air Rescue Service. Civil Air Patrol operates approximately 5,000 light planes which are owned by individual members, together with some 900 surplus training and liaison aircraft donated to Civil Air Patrol by the Air Force, Army and Navy.

The local squadron has taken part in several air rescue missions. The Kansas Civil Air Patrol took an active part in the recent heavy snows in Kansas by dropping emergency supplies to stranded persons in isolated areas.

Pettis County NFO Will Hold Meet on Tuesday

The Pettis County National Farmers Organization is to hold a countrywide meeting at the Pettis County courthouse at 8 p. m. Tuesday night. Oren Lee Staley, national president, will be the principal speaker on the program.

President Staley who has been active in national farm affairs has appeared in Washington, D. C., before agriculture committees both of the Senate and House, discussed the problems with Secretary of Agriculture Benson. His knowledge of the farm problems and his efforts in seeking government laws and supports lead to an interesting talk.

Several other speakers of national prominence and with close knowledge of the farm problems will be on the program assuring an important as well as an interesting meeting.

The Pettis County Chapter of the NFO has nearly completed its membership drive and is believed to have the largest membership of any county in the 11th Congressional District.

Albert Anderson, county chairman, announced the meeting is open to the public and especially urges the attendance of the farmers as well as business men.

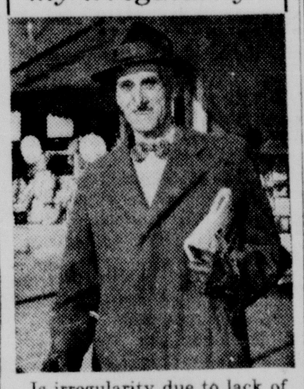
Mother's Little Helper

McALESTER, Okla. (AP)—Three-year-old Chris Long, clad only in her nightie and bare-footed, dashed through a rainstorm into a shop and asked for aid.

"I've locked my mother in a closet and can't get her out," she said.

Mrs. Herbert Aston, a clerk, rushed to the house. Sure enough, Mrs. Shirley Long was trapped in the closet.

"I'M REALLY LIVING —since Kellogg's All-Bran overcame my irregularity"



Is irregularity due to lack of bulk making your life miserable? Then read how All-Bran helped Mr. Lee Uhler, Baltimore, Maryland.

"At 67 constipation had made me unfit for work. Today I'm really living (since All-Bran overcame my irregularity). I'm happy and back at work."

All-Bran has helped millions by correcting a common cause of constipation—lack of good food bulk in the diet.

An ounce of All-Bran a day provides the natural laxative bulk you need daily to avoid irregularity. Try it for 10 days. See if it doesn't put you back on schedule . . . comfortably, naturally.

SQUEEZE PLAY—With tongue in cheek, Dr. Robert Rose, right, explains that only by coordinating their breathing did he and two companions make "comfortably" the 100-mile trip from Columbus, Ohio, to Cincinnati. The gas tank of the tiny German-made Isetti-300, of Italian design, holds only 2.4 gallons, but that's enough, as the doodlebug gets 60 miles to the gallon. Its six-horsepower motor cruises at 60 miles per hour.

Idea Girl Plans World Tour To See All the Best Shows

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — How would you like to fly around the earth and attend the top shows in all the world's entertainment capitals?

"We're planning such a tour right now for some time after Christmas," said Betty Murray, one of Broadway's most unusual idea girls.

"There will be plenty of people who'll want to go."

Miss Murray, known as "The Show Plane Lady," is perhaps the most stagestruck woman in America. She was a varsity player on the clavichord and the oboe in college, but now she plays all her concertos on an even more lovable instrument — the cash register.

"My mother was a singer and my father was a comedian," she said, "and I yearned to do high idealistic things in the theater myself. But I found my real talent was as a promoter."

Betty came to Broadway with a headful of dreams back in 1947. She took the first job she could find — as a switchboard jockey and utility typist for a local radio station. Then she began promoting trade shows.

In 1954 the tall, slender blue-eyed girl caught the attention of Herman Shumlin, producer of "Inherit the Wind." He made her a production assistant.

"It's something like bird watching," said Betty drily. "You observe everything — and make notes.'

Shortly thereafter she heard a group of producers griping about the summer lull along Broadway. She reasoned that the hinterland must be full of people who'd like to fly to a weekend in New York and fill all those empty seats.

"But many people hate to come here by themselves," she said.

They also hate to make hotel and theater reservations. Why couldn't I set up a simple package deal to take care of them?"

She did. She found the woods were full of folks thrilled to find out that for $37.50 plus plane fare they could stay at a hotel in Manhattan, dine at Sardi's, meet theatrical celebrities at a cocktail party and attend two Broadway plays.

The first show plane proved an immediate success. Since then Betty, as founder and president of the American Theater Institute, has ferried 25,000 playgoers here by plane and bus from all parts of America, Cuba and Canada.

The idea has become a multi-million-dollar enterprise. Betty has had no difficulty getting famous Broadway producers and actors to attend her cocktail parties.

"They all realize it helps create an audience for their next play," she said.

Next month Betty will shepherd a group of 71 theater lovers on her first "International Show Plane" trip to Europe. They will attend performances in England, Paris, and Rome, meet Sir Laurence Olivier, Ingrid Bergman and Mario Lanza — and play a bit of roulette at Monte Carlo.

The round-the-world trip will follow at the end of the year.

Now hailed as a new saviour of the legitimate theater, Betty yearns to be an angel — in the Broadway meaning of the term.

"I'd like to produce a fine play, something real and artistically sincere," she said, "even if it winds up a commercial flop.

"Then, after I've got that out of my system, maybe I'll go back and take up the clavichord and oboe again."

Versailles Ranks High in Contest

Students of Versailles R II High School won several honors at the district contests held in Warrensburg.

Sharon Berkstresser and Doris Carpenter rated I in baton twirling and are eligible for the state contest. The girls sextet composed of Fern Sattler, Betty Daulton, Sharon Hall, Karen Hughes, Loretta Hilty and Margery Beach earned a 1 rating for the music department.

II's were received by Ruth Ann Morris, baritone horn solo; LeAnna White and Ann McDonald, piano solos; brass instrumental sextet and the girl's glee club. The mixed chorus rated a three and the band scored a I rating.

In the science contest Gary Waller, Roy Scholl and Ann McDonald received the highest rating in biology competition. A science fair entry by Cozy Cole and Martha Raines rated I.

John Belcher earned a II in plane geometry and Sharon Berkstresser a III.

Loretta Hiley rated ninth in a group of 32 in beginner's typing and Claude Joy ranked tenth in the bookkeeping contest.

Presleyana

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Elvis Presley isn't the only one profiting by his popularity.

Ted Whisenhunt, 15, a talented young artist, drew a pencil sketch of the teen-age idol for a drawing class.

A Junior High school classmate —female, of course—saw the sketch and bought it for 50 cents.

Since then Ted has doubled his asking price and has sold six sketches.

He made the sketch from a picture of Presley in a movie magazine.

Sedalia Debaters Win Traveling Plaque

Lawrence D. Lingle, son of Mrs. Irma Lingle, 906 South Osage, and Jack J. Isgur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Isgur, 908 West Third, recently teamed up to win the Missouri University traveling debate plaque for the 1957 school year. Both are students at Missouri University and graduates of Smith-Cotton High School. Larry and Jack were partners in high school debates and won 87 per cent of all contests they entered. Larry attended CMSC for two years and actively participated in debate. Jack has been attending MU since graduation from high school. The topic for their debate was: Resolved that the Eisenhower Doctrine is the best Middle Eastern policy. The boys took the negative stand.

Sign Language

CHICAGO (AP) —A motorist driving on Chicago's outer drive often sees the strangest sights — beauties along Lake Michigan beaches, a blizzard or a driving rainstorm. But the strangest one of all involved new signs of the times.

A car with Texas license plates displayed a sign which said, "Made in Texas by Texans," a car had another which said, "Made in Kenosha by Kenoshans." A third car showed a sign on a foreign-made car saying, "Made in der Black Forest by Elfs."

On the way home, the commuter saw another foreign-made car with a sign that said, "Made in Africa by Ants."

4-H Round-Up with

OWEN FOX

Pettis County Assoc. Agent

Dates Ahead

April 27 — County 4-H Livestock Judging training meeting. We will meet at the Joe Bill Reid farm at 9:00 a.m. and at Tom Ream's farm in the afternoon.

May 3 — 4-H Meat Identification and Judging meeting in the meat department of Krogers store in Sedalia at 8 p.m. Those 4-H members enrolled in the sheep, beef, hog, Food preparation, food preservation, and Junior Leadership projects who have notified their 4-H Community leader, are eligible to attend.

4-H Sunday — May 26

Rural Life Sunday, often called 4-H Sunday, is the fifth Sunday after Easter. It has its roots in the Rogation Days and is a day set apart for emphasizing the meaning of Christianity for rural life; for the invocation of God's blessing upon the seed, fruits of the soil, and cultivators of the earth; and for the consideration of justice for agriculture and the spiritual values of rural life. It was first observed in 1929, at the suggestion of the International Association of Agricultural Missions, and according to plans adopted by the Home Missions Council, Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, and many religious bodies.

Sunday. Club members and 4-H clubs throughout the land have observed Rural Life Sunday so generally that they often speak of it as 4-H Sunday.

Should we turn to the Bible for a scriptural authorization for 4-H we would turn to that passage that says "He grew in wisdom, stature, and in favor with God and man". This is John the Baptist's description of how the Savious grew and his was the perfect life. It should be an excellent model for any youth organization. Many youth organizations speak of the 4 fold life — mental, physical, social and spiritual. Here is the background for the 4-H'ers. He grew in wisdom, the Head H stature, the Health H; in favor with the God, the Heart H; in favor with man, the Hand H.

The Heart H then is the spiritual H and when a member pledges his "Heart to greater loyalty", this may mean just as much as he or she wants it to mean: Loyalty to his God, loyalty to his country, loyalty to his friends, loyalty to his home.

We hope that one's 4-H experience strengthens all of these loyalties.

Since 4-H involves members of all faiths and all creeds it does not seem appropriate to make worship services an integral of the 4-H program. Many members participate in vesper services from time to time but for many this one Sunday will be the only worship service observed by a 4-H club in the entire year.

We hope, however, the spirit of good will, good sportsmanship, and good fellowship prevails in all clubs throughout the year. We hope that the observance of Rural Life Sunday will quicken the interest of all 4-H members in Sunday School and church.

Rural Life Sunday falls on May 26 this year but not all observances are necessarily held on that date.

Many counties hold county-wide services involving a church service in the morning, and in some cases, a basket dinner and an afternoon program.

In many cases the 4-H members have a very responsible part in the Sunday morning service ministers usually select a text and deliver a sermon in keeping with the relation between nature and deity.

Both rural and city churches may observe Rural Life Sunday for all men are dependent upon mother earth for their food, homes, and all material possessions.

The Missouri Bible College has always supported Rural Life Sunday. Sometimes in the past, sermons have been developed by members of the Bible College faculty and made available throughout the state. More recently, members of the Bible College staff have prepared a series of suggestions for sermons with biblical references and an outline for the development of the same.

Miss Kendrick Gives Excerpts From Books

Mrs. W. Porter Murray was hostess to members of the Knob Noster Progressive Club at her home Tuesday afternoon.

Donald Kuhlman, sophomore selected to represent Knob Noster High School on the pilgrimage to the state capitol, gave an interesting and detailed talk of his trip. He was sponsored by the club.

Miss Lois Kendrick presented the topic "Book Lore" in an unusual manner by giving excerpts from some of the newer books. Mrs. Ina Richeson, vice president, conducted the business meeting.

The following officers were elected: president, Miss Kendrick; first vice president, Mrs. Richeson; second vice president, Mrs. Gordon Anderson, and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Murray.

Members voted to donate to the cancer fund.

Miss Helen Taylor, Janesville, Wisc., was a guest.

The May meeting will be a luncheon at Sky Haven.

Flag Shortage

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Navy, usually ready fustest with the mostest, found itself seriously short of presidential flags here when President Eisenhower decided to go to Bermuda on the cruiser Canberra.

The United States Flag and Signal Company here, which had never made a presidential flag, hurriedly finished four of them. But Navy planes flying them to Bermuda twice were turned back by mechanical trouble. The third attempt was successful.

President Appoints Committees For PTA

The LaMonte PTA met April 15 at the school with Mrs. Paul Steinkuhler presiding. The Rev. Jerry Moon led the group singing.

Mrs. Charles Sparks reported that 175 children received polio shots at the clinic sponsored by the PTA. The seventh grade won the attendance banner.

Mrs. Ernest Cole installed the new officers and both the new and retiring officers were presented with corsages.

Mrs. Steinkuhler appointed the following committees: program, Mrs. Frank Breon, Mrs. Bud Wasson, Mrs. Ernest Cole; membership, Mrs. Charles Sparks, Mrs. Bruce Richey, Mrs. James Fowler; congress publication, Mrs. Hughes; budget and finance, Russel McCarrol, Charles Sparks, John Farris; publicity, Mrs. Wilbur Hayden; hospitality, Mrs. Herbert Gerken, Mrs. Earl Thompson and Mrs. Ray Sherman.

Nobody's Fuel

TEMPLE, Okla. (AP) — Bill Bentley, filling station operator here, got a call to bring a can of gasoline to a customer who ran out some miles from town.

Bill filled up a can of gasoline and started off to find the stranded motorist. On the way, his car ran out of gas.

Prison Economy

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The State Board of Public Welfare has proposed closing the twine - making plant at the Wisconsin Stae Prison at Waupun.

Inmates started making twine in 1912 and since then the plant has turned back $2,295,307 to the state's general fund.

But officials, in their recommendation, said the twine market is so bad that even with 35 cents a day prison labor the plant now is losing money.

Smith-Cotton News

Students Cast First Vote On Candidates for President

By Beverly Long

The preliminary voting of the Senior and Junior High Council presidents were held last Tuesday at Smith-Cotton. The two candidates receiving the highest number of votes in the Junior High were Tommy Leslie and Wayne Shupbach. The two for Senior High were Charles Lawrence and Johnny Middleton. The final elections will be held next Monday, April 22.

The Smith-Cotton debate team, with Teddy Walch, Priscilla Scott, Tony Walch and Wayne Brown were finally eliminated from the state National Forensic League Tournament in St. Louis Monday and Tuesday. After putting up a good fight, they were overpowered by William Chrisman and Neosho High Schools. Wayne Brown went to the semi-finals in extemporaneous speaking.

Thursday morning at Smith-Cotton, the annual Easter assembly was held for the whole school and guests. A call to worship was given by Don Edde and the doxology was sung by the entire assembly. The students then took part in a responsive reading led by Bob Walch, followed by "The Lord's Prayer" sung by Nan Ferguson. A prayer was then given in unison and the responsive reading continued with Charles Arnest leading it. Harry Satterwhite then sang "The Holy City," followed by the speaker, the Rev. Edward R. Sims, pastor of the Calvary Episcopal Church, who gave a very encouraging speech.

Preparations are being made for the all-school recognition assembly to be held May 17. Sponsors of different activities have turned in their names of students qualified for school letters and all seniors who have earned scholarships have done likewise.

The Smith-Cotton chapter of the National Honor Society met for its regular session Thursday, April 18. This was the last meeting of the year.

The entry blanks for the "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest are in at Smith-Cotton and any girl desiring to enter this contest has been asked to look into this matter.

The Senior Student Council has invited the Senior High School to attend a dance to be held in the cafeteria Wednesday, May 1, from 8:30 to 11 p.m. Leland Payton's Band will play and the price of the dance will be 50-cents per couple. This is a senior high semi-formal dance and the council's last effort to provide entertainment for the students of Smith-Cotton.

The Junior High Intramural plays which are fairly well under way will be held next Thursday, April 25. The director of these plays are Kay Richardson, freshman, and Judith Curran, eighth grade. The casts for these plays have already been selected.

Nurse, Home Agent Are Guests At Club

The Striped College Homemakers Extension Club met all day April 16 at the home of Mrs. Ted Dabner with Mrs. John Linnville and Mrs. Erwin Shirley assisting.

After the contributive dinner the meeting was called to order by Mrs. John Linnville. Twenty-three members and three guests answered roll with an Easter centerpiece or decorations.

Miss Esther Meisenheimer, district health nurse, explained the work of the heart, demonstrating on the plastic heart model.

Miss Opal O'Briant, home agent, showed plans for planting shrubs and flowers around farm homes. Sketches of different types of houses on various ground levels were used to show the importance of long range planning of not only arrangement of low shrubs and border plants but proper placement of large trees.

Mrs. E. Biggs read the news letter. Thirty-eight diapers were made for Mercy Hospital by Mrs. Ernest Biggs. Mrs. H. H. Edwards, Mrs. M. L. Edwards and Mrs. Ellis Garrett are on the 4-H refreshment committee for May. Mrs. E. C. Stevens gave the devotional. Mrs. Ted Dabner read an Easter prayer. It was announced that the club tour to Columbia will be May 6 and the cost is only $2.20 per person.

On May 17 the club will tour several stores in Sedalia.

Large Attendance At Concordia PTA

The Concordia PTA met Monday night at the school with approximately 300 attending.

Mrs. Frank Lamere presided over the meeting. The entertainment consisted of folk dances and songs by the first four grades. Mrs. Glover Blahn gave the devotional. The attendance banner went to the fourth grade.

A social hour followed.

Whiteman Drills 3 Additional Wells

Drilling a well around the clock, but for water not oil, is currently being done at Whiteman Air Force Base by Lane Western Construction Co., Kansas City.

The well, located west of the Air Installations building off Doolittle Road, is being drilled to a depth of approximately 1,000 feet by two 12-hour shifts a day. Case hardened steel bits are used on the drills which have thus far cut through soil and rock to a depth of over 400 feet.

Another well will be drilled by the same firm, with Don Brown of Warrensburg, Mo., as sub-contractor, west of the Whiteman Hospital carport. Both wells are expected to be completed next August and ready for use in the middle of September.

According to engineering specifications, the wells must produce approximately 300 gallons a minute. They will be used to supplement Whiteman's water supply produced by three wells at present.
